OLSON IMPOSES MILITARY RULE AT MINNEAPOLIS

Truck Drivers and Employers Fail To Reach Agreement To End Strike, So Governor Acts Decisively.

4,000 GUARDSMEN TAKE OVER CITY

No Violence Attends Twin City Action; Chicago Stockyards Situation Improves.

(By the Associated Press.)

Minneapolis, Minn., July 26.—(AP)—The city of Minneapolis was put under military rule at 12:20 p. m. yesterday by Governor Floyd B. Olson. He had given both strikers and employers until noon to accept a plan proposed by the federal mediators, the Rev. Francis Haas and E. H. Dunnigan. The drivers voted 1,866 to 147 to accept this plan but the employers, acting an hour earlier, had accepted all except a proposal for a wage scale ranging from 42 1/2 to 52 1/2 cents an hour and charged communists were agitating the strikers. So the governor acted.

There were no disorders as 4,000 national guardsmen moved into action to preserve order.

Day of Activity.

It was a day of activity in strike centers. At San Francisco it became known that the longshoremen of Pacific coast seaports were overwhelmingly in favor of arbitration. Ballot counting indicated the 12,000 strikers had voted 4 to 1 for arbitration. Federal mediators immediately suggested they return to their jobs through the old hiring agencies, which, although still employer controlled, are now under federal supervision. It was predicted the issues, principally the union's part in controlling these hiring agencies, would be settled in two weeks.

Settlement of San Francisco's street car strike was announced after an agreement to submit the strikers' demands to arbitration. As result of the settlement, street car night service, at a standstill since the strike started May 15, is to be resumed on some lines tonight, and normal service will be resumed by Saturday, it was said.

Another step towards settlement of the strike of Pacific coast seagoing workers, who allied in walkout with the longshoremen, was taken with arrangements for the workers to select collective bargaining representatives.

Chicago Better.

At Chicago a union stock yards strike situation had grown no worse. On the contrary, part of the striking live stock handlers had approved a peace plan. Lloyd Garrison, chairman of the national relations board, said at Washington, D. C., however, that if it did grow worse, "we will send a man out there."

The striking Shell Company oil plant workers at Hammond, Ind., fearing activities of radicals might prejudice their cause, organized their own police force to protect the East Chicago refinery and filling stations.

Omaha Walkout.

Four hundred street railway employees suddenly walked out in Omaha and nearby Council Bluffs, Iowa, yesterday morning. The same 400 had sent Omahans to work on foot and

Sapele Lighthouse Is Moved to Michigan

BRUNSWICK, Ga., July 26.—(AP)—The lighthouse which once protected shipping passing along Sapele island off the Georgia coast soon will be guiding vessels traveling the Great Lakes.

The light, the tower that housed it and other equipment have been dismantled and shipped in two freight cars to Grand Haven, Mich., where it will be rebuilt and placed in service. Since the tower was built of steel columns, instead of brick, it was possible to dismantle it for transportation to Michigan.

The Sapele Island light was dismantled about a year ago, when it was deemed no longer necessary for the guidance of ships along the Georgia coast.

TALMADGE MOVES TO ENFORCE HIKE OF PHONE TAXES

Savage, McElmurray Are Named Umpires of Assessments Against Companies Fighting Cuts.

Rate reductions ordered by the public service commission having been temporarily enjoined by the Fulton superior court, Governor Talmadge Thursday took steps to enforce increased tax assessments against the companies obtaining the injunctions.

The chief executive named Jack C. Savage, assistant city attorney of Atlanta, and W. L. McElmurray, of Waynesboro, former state senator and a member of the board of control, as the umpires of the tax assessments, which, like the rate decreases, are being fought by the telephone companies. Two arbitrators, Commissioner J. B. (Toby) Daniel, of the public service commission, representing the controller general, and Ernest M. Price, former state expert of the old public service commission, already have failed to bring about a settlement of the assessment question.

Under the law, when the arbitrators named by the state and the utilities fail to agree on a settlement, the governor is empowered to appoint two umpires who meet with a representative of the utilities. Any assessment fixed by this board of umpires is subject to review by the courts.

It is expected that Mr. Savage and Mr. McElmurray will meet here soon with the phone company's representative.

The tax assessments of all utilities

Atlantan Kidnaped, Left Tied in Woods

An Atlanta man was kidnaped in Athens Thursday night by two nicely dressed young bandits who brought him to Atlanta, robbed him of his money, jewelry and car, and left him tied in the woods near East Lake.

Frank T. Gammage, of 816 Ponce de Leon place, a traveling salesman with the International Harvester company, told Atlanta police he was leaving the postoffice in Athens at 9 o'clock when the two young men approached him and entered his car while he was driving.

While one held the gun on Gammage, the other drove his car back to Atlanta. They put him out in a woody section on McFay road, and he was tied to a tree with his hands and feet by a tree with handkerchiefs, he said. They took his ring, $40 in cash and his car. Gammage was freed from his bonds and came to the police station to make the report.

8 CHILDREN KILLED BENEATH WHEELS OF FREIGHT TRAIN

Group Scampers Away From One Train Directly Into Path of Another and Is Cut to Pieces.

SHELTON, Conn., July 26.—(AP)—Seven boys and a girl playing cards on a railroad track were killed today by a freight train they apparently didn't see or hear approaching.

The engineer of the train, southbound, was unable to see the laughing, happy group of children, because of a northbound freight train. A short distance to the north of the players, who were seated on a wooden platform between the rails, the northbound freight rounded a curve. Its noise undoubtedly kept the group from hearing the other train.

It was one of Connecticut's worst tragedies in many years, and seven of the eight—six boys and the sister of one of them—died almost instantly, while the last youth died in Griffin hospital a few hours later.

List of Dead.

The accident occurred on the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

The dead are: George Rumbly, 16, decapitated. Charles Bierwirth, 14, crushed. Ruth Bierwirth, 14, sister of Charles. Cap Hoffman, 13. Steve Ratkevich, 12. Joe Dzwonchik, 14. John Gentile, 17, who died in a hospital.

Seven Die Quickly.

The victims were struck near a Shelton town playhouse, where they were crossing the railroad river from the house of the Yale Athletic Association.

Persons who first reached the scene found the mangled bodies, with all but three of the children dead. Two of those still living died within a few minutes, never regaining consciousness.

Death and Power Are Rewards

Thursday's swift march of events in turbulent Austria saw these two men thrust dramatically to the forefront of the news—one through death and the other through ascension to power as the strife-torn nation's new chancellor.

Prince Von Starhemberg (right), leader of the Austrian fascists and admirer of Mussolini, was made chancellor. Meantime Anton Rintelin, Nazi leader (left), met death in a jail cell, where he was being held in connection with the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss. It was announced that Rintelin took his own life upon the collapse of the Nazi rebellion. His family says he was slain by Dollfuss associates.

RAIN LOOSENS GRIP OF INTENSE HEAT AS STORM PASSES

Death Toll Levels Off at 1,361 as Cooling Breezes Blow Over Nation.

By the Associated Press.

Rain and cooling breezes Thursday scotched the intense heat which had held most of the nation in its grip for a week and had claimed the lives of 1,361 persons.

Generally cooler temperatures were reported in all sections and there was an abrupt leveling off in the number of deaths.

While moisture afforded some temporary relief to parched land, crop experts said much additional rain must fall to afford any permanent benefits to the great agricultural producing areas. They added that in numerous sections no amount of rain at this time could help, as the crops were virtually a total loss.

The Texas gulf coast was swept by a storm of hurricane proportions Wednesday that added an estimated 30 victims to the list of heat deaths and caused hundreds of thousands of dollars damage to crops and property.

Crop Figures.

The tremendous heat and drought devastation was shown in a report by E. A. Logan, of the bureau of agricultural economics, which placed the Missouri corn crop at not more than 40,000,000 bushels, compared with a previous figure of 80,000,000 on July 10. The Kansas figures were 25,000,000 bushels against 48,000,000 on July 1.

A joint federal and state agricultural report made public in Minnesota placed crop conditions at from 30 to 70 per cent normal, with hay at the lower extreme, winter wheat at 32 per cent and spring wheat a 45 per cent.

Grain prices were lower on the Chicago Board of Trade, but market experts referred to irreparable damage when he was thrown from the truck by the impact of the collision. Tom Guthrie, another fireman, who has been at work but two weeks following injury to his back, cast yesterday as a fall from a ladder, suffered a strain and will be confined to his home for a week, according to doctors. Both men are employed at Station No. 4.

The fire truck, operated by W. B. Hopkins, collided with a motorcycle ridden by James MacThier, negro, 204 Dunlap street. The negro was seriously hurt and physicians at Grady stated Thursday night that amputation of one of his feet might be necessary.

2 Firemen, Negro Hurt In Four-Way Collision

Two city firemen and a negro were injured Thursday morning when a fire truck answering an alarm struck a motorcycle and two parked automobiles and then crashed into two parked cars.

Fireman E. H. Davis, 585 Seminole avenue, was treated at Grady hospital for severe cuts and bruises when he was thrown from the truck by the impact of the collision. Tom Guthrie, another fireman, who has been at work but two weeks following injury to his back, cast yesterday as a fall from a ladder, suffered a strain and will be confined to his home for a week, according to doctors. Man Accused as Dillinger Aid Leaps to Death After Arrest

CHICAGO, July 26.—(AP)—James Johnson Probasco, whose home was declared to be the improvised hospital where John Dillinger underwent a plastic surgery operation to disguise his features, today cut short the question of federal agents by leaping 19 floors to his death.

Probasco, a 67-year-old tavern keeper, jumped through the window of an office of the federal bureau of investigation in the Bankers' building at Clark and Adams street, in the heart of Chicago's loop shortly before 10:30 a. m. (central standard time). His body narrowly missed a pedestrian.

The couple were married about five years ago, and have one child. Mr. Candler was formerly manager of the Candler garage, which was acquired recently by A. L. Belle Isle.

MUSSOLINI SENDS 48,000 SOLDIERS TO AUSTRIAN LINE

Rome Does Not Contemplate Sending Men on Across Border Unless Hitler Interferes.

ROME, July 26.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today sent 48,000 troops, fully equipped for war-time service, to the Austrian frontier.

A high foreign office official said the move constitutes an affirmation, directed at Germany, that Italy will not permit interference with the domestic affairs of Austria.

The troops—four divisions of 12,800 men each—were moved into positions on the Brenner pass and the Carinthian pass from the nearest army posts, and were ready for rapid military action in case the situation demands it.

However, the government stated that no further steps are likely to be taken in view of improved conditions in Austria.

The soldiers were ordered to mark time on the border and by no means to overstep the frontier except on orders from Mussolini himself.

At Rome, where the premier refused himself to all interviewers except his immediate assistants in the army, navy and air ministries, it was emphasized officially that the troop movements do not mean that intervention is a certainty.

The government's official attitude is that Austria appears to be so well under control that outside military aid will not necessarily be needed by Chancellor Dollfuss' successor, Prince Ernst Von Starhemberg.

The extent of the preparations for any eventuality, however, indicate that Mussolini does not consider that a change for the worst is a minor possibility.

News of the movement caused breaks in the Rome and Milan stock exchanges and rumors that the troops had crossed the border caused the issuing of a communique stating that it was not believed such action will be necessary.

The Italian press recently has been particularly bitter toward the Nazi regime in Germany in connection with the Austrian situation, accusing Chancellor Hitler of failing to keep his agreement with Mussolini to support the independence of Austria.

POWERS SAID PLEASED WITH NEW CHANCELLOR

LONDON, July 26.—(AP)—Great Britain's foreign office and Italy were pleased tonight as satisfied with the elevation of Prince Ernst Von Starhemberg to the head of the Austrian government, the place of the slain Chancellor Dollfuss.

The three powers, which have undertaken to guarantee the neutrality of Austria, it was stated, will abandon any thought of joint action in the Austro-German situation on the grounds that the Nazis have done themselves more damage than could possibly be inflicted from any other quarter.

The danger of Nazi control in Austria is definitely past, in the view of British authorities, and it is now regarded as unlikely that Austria will make any protest to the League of Nations or to the powers against Germany in connection with the putsch and the killing of Dollfuss.

Beyond making separate declarations such as those of Premier Mussolini and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary—reaffirming support of Austrian independence, no action by the big powers is expected.

(The Mussolini affirmation was strengthened by movement of troops to the border, but such action is not expected by any other big power.)

It is agreed that it is the wisest policy now to let the Nazis stew in their own juice, said one source close to the powers.

"They harmed themselves immeasurably by showing how weak they really are—much weaker than were the socialists whom Dollfuss ousted last February and by forcing an estrangement between Germany and Italy which may be expected to gradually widen in the future."

In a speech in the house of commons Sir John Simon belittled Nazi strength in Austria and emphasized

Col. Webb C. Hayes, 78 Passes in Marion, Ohio

MARION, Ohio, July 26.—(AP)—Colonel Webb C. Hayes, 78, son of Rutherford Hayes, 19th president of the United States, died here today after more than a year's illness.

He was a resident of Marion, Ohio, where he had been under treatment for hardening of the arteries.

Death came at 2 p. m. today but word of it was not given out until three hours later.

Among the known dead were five killed when the storm, tearing inland 60 miles, struck the Jackson county town of Moravia.

The dead: Neal Lewis, 45, Wink, Texas; Marvey Lewis, 13, Wink; Ronald Lewis, 12, Wink; Mrs. Sue A. George, 72, Moravia; Hardy Cook, negro farm laborer; Hugh W. Herford, 63, drowned at Freeport; an unidentified man also drowned at Freeport, and Daniel B. Singleton, 41, swept from a Texas city pier and drowned.

In the Matagorda bay region, 10 persons were at first reported missing, but eight of them were thought to be safe.

South Georgia Power Asks Rate Injunction

The South Georgia Power & Light company of Valdosta and Waycross Thursday petitioned the state courts for an injunction preventing the public service commission from putting into effect an 18 per cent rate reduction.

The company Wednesday applied for an injunction in the federal court but that tribunal held it had no jurisdiction.

Hearing on the plea in the state courts will be held August 6 before Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy and one or more other judges.

In its petition, the company charges that the rates prescribed are confiscatory and that the commission is not qualified to pass on rate matters because of duress from Governor Talmadge.

March of Events In Austrian Crisis

(By the Associated Press.)

Principal developments in the Austrian situation.

Civil warfare with an estimated toll of some 300 lives, has broken out in southern Austria.

Prince Ernst Von Starhemberg, fascist heimewehr leader, as head of the Austrian government in place of the slain Chancellor Dollfuss, sought to quench the uprising with the full force of heimewehr and federal troops.

With artillery and small arms blazing away in Austria, Premier Mussolini sent 48,000 soldiers to the border with orders to be ready for any eventuality.

His action was said by high Italian officials to be an affirmation to Germany that Italy is ready to protect Austrian independence. Forty-eight planes were also dispatched to the border.

The gendarmerie at Graz, in Styria, reported intercepting a message from a secret Nazi radio station broadcasting an appeal throughout Austria to all cohorts to join Styria and other provinces in overthrowing the government.

Italy, France and Great Britain were represented by high officials ready to do whatever necessary to preserve Austrian integrity, but as believing that no armed intervention will be necessary.

Germany continued to insist that the Nazi government there had nothing to do with the putsch in which Dollfuss was killed, and messages of condolence were sent.

Hitler named Vice Chancellor Franz Von Papen, who has been a thorn in his side, as ambassador extraordinary to Austria to succeed Dr. Kurt Riehl, who was given his walking papers.

The German border, which had been closed to Nazi refugees from Austria, was reopened on the ground that the restriction no longer was necessary.

Chancellor Hitler, unverified reports, was in Munich, possibly to prevent Austrian Nazis from crossing near there from crossing into Austria.

Pope Pius, who knew the slain Dollfuss well, sent a message of condolence.

There was uneasiness in the Murgtail valley, main artery to Vienna. A detachment of federal troops was reported on its way there. Trouble also was reported at Liesing and Balmatal.

A secret message picked up by the gendarmerie at Graz indicated that Nazis, through a hidden radio station, had broadcast an appeal to cohorts throughout Austria to assist in overthrowing the government of Prince Ernst Rudiger Von Starhemberg, a royalist. He was named yesterday to succeed the "little Chancellor."

Artillery fire and the rattle of machine guns in the vicinity of Leoben, according to the most recent advice, had come to a standstill. There were reports of fighting between federal soldiers and Nazi forces—Heimewehrmen and federal Nazis for possession of the city, gained by Nazis shortly after the killing of Chancellor Dollfuss Wednesday.

All public communications—rail, telephone and mail services, were stopped, however, and news reached Vienna from Graz by way of police radio.

Reports from Carinthia and Styria indicated no Italian troops had crossed the border yet. About 48,000 foreign soldiers stood ready in warlike accoutrements, waiting orders from Mussolini himself.

Mobilization of Nazi farmers in southern Austria was reported. Many of them, from the farms of the hinterlands, fought without knowing the government still was in the hands of fascists.

They thought that Tuesday's putsch at Vienna overthrew the government and placed Dr. Anton Rintelin, pro-Nazi, at the head of a new cabinet. Altogether, it appeared from reports reaching Vienna up to last night that the Nazis were losing ground, although government forces were not uniformly successful.

Artillery fire rumbled within Austrian borders for the first time since the socialist civil war in February as fighting in the south progressed. Field pieces were trundled into position and liberally used by government forces, especially in the drive to recapture Leoben, which finally succumbed.

Casualties Are Heavy.

In Styria reports had 130 Nazis and 100 gendarmes killed. Twenty-seven met death in the Leoben siege. The city has a population of 10,000.

Near the airport in Annabich, a suburb of Klagenfurt, where authorities said they discovered plans for a Nazi mobilization, 200 Nazis armed

STOCK PRICES TUMBLE ON AUSTRIAN WAR RUMORS

NEW YORK, July 26.—(AP)—Rumors of the stock exchange market in a weakened position today and sent prices into the sharpest decline of the year.

The swift decline of share prices unsettled bond prices. The United States government issues, France, as measured by price averages, showed the widest losses in both stocks and bonds.

STOCK PRICES TUMBLE ON AUSTRIAN WAR RUMORS

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Members of the stock exchange regulation commission said today the closest scrutiny would be given the origin of rumors that Italian troops had marched into Austria which caused the stock market to nose downward.

Officials said while it was not possible to state definitely now what their powers were in regard to rumors of this character, they planned to study the situation.

The rumors were that Italian troops had crossed the Austrian border, thus indicating a situation more serious than that described in news reports from accredited newspaper correspondents at the scene of action.

Officials said that while the security exchange act may not specifically ban the spreading of such rumors, it almost certainly would permit the drafting of a rule or regulation designed to bring such rumor-spreading under the act.

SILENT REPORTERS SENT BACK TO JAIL

Kentucky Newspaper Men Get Third Sentence for Refusing Information.

DANVILLE, Ky., July 26.—(AP)—For the third time in three days Jack Durham and Wesley Carty, Danville newspapermen, were sent to jail today because they refused to give Police Judge J. W. Harlan information they regarded as confidential.

Today's jail sentences were six hours. They received like sentences yesterday, and the day previous they got three hours each. On Monday, when they first refused to tell what they knew about the hanging in effigy of a state representative, Judge Harlan fined them $10 each. Today he added a fine of $3 each to their jail sentences. Each time they were held in contempt of court.

Judge Harlan yesterday told the 23-year-old reporters that they had challenged his court, and that it was going to be an endurance contest. From behind the bars again tonight, Durham and Carty repeated their declaration that they would continue to hold their information as confidential.

"We could not be induced by anything," they said, "to break our confidence."

Durham said they were being "persecuted in a case where other persons are criminally involved."

In Frankfort, the Capital Press Club, organization of newspaper correspondents, adopted a resolution commending Durham and Carty for their stand, and censuring Judge Harlan "and all others who had a part in the jailing" of Carty and Durham.

S. W. Jones To Study

Dixie Wage Problems

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Sullivan W. Jones, chairman of the national construction planning and adjustment board, announced today he would begin on August 1 a trip through North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, to study wage problems having arisen under application of the construction code in these southern states.

In May, southern general contractors protested against the minimum wage of 40 cents for common labor and asked for a stay of this code wage provision.

A hearing on the petition was held in Washington, but Jones said the evidence submitted contained little or no factual information to prove that construction had been curtailed because of the allegedly high wage.

TWINS, 61, MURDERED,

BODIES FOUND IN WOOD

MOBILE, Ala., July 26.—(AP)—Fresh and Alfred Finch, 61-year-old twins, were found shot to death in a wooded section north of here this afternoon by relatives led to the spot by a hunting dog which accompanied the aged brothers when they left home yesterday.

The bodies of the two men, inseparable through life, were riddled with buckshot. They were found near Wilmer, 30 miles from Mobile.

Relatives began a search for the brothers when they failed to return from a trip into northern Mobile county yesterday. They had gone out to cut timber.

The hunting dog which led the searchers to the scene of the double murder was found today.

STAY OF EXECUTION

IS GRANTED TO SHANK

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 26.—(AP)—Associate Justice T. H. Humphreys, of the Arkansas supreme court, today granted a stay of execution for Mark H. Shank, Akron, Ohio, attorney, who was scheduled to die at dawn tomorrow for the poison murder of four persons.

The stay of execution was granted to permit the supreme court when it reconvenes from its summer recess September 17 to consider an appeal on the question of giving Shank a sanity hearing.

REVISED LEGISLATURE

NAMED IN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 26.—(AP) Representative E. W. Marland, democratic nominee for governor, will have plenty of "new brooms" for the "New Deal" he promised Oklahoma.

The voters in Tuesday's run-off primary dealt an almost completely revised legislature into office by shuffling many incumbents into the discard.

When, and if, Marland takes office as Oklahoma's chief executive next January, he will work with a legislature in which there will be few hold-over members.

Industrial Output

Decreased in June

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—A drop in industrial production in June—carrying it below the average for June, 1933—was reported today by the federal reserve board as the first such occurrence since the advent of the New Deal.

The board estimated the industrial production average for June at 84 per cent of the 1923-1925 average. In every other month since the banking crisis of March, 1933, production has been above the average for the corresponding period of the preceding year.

The decline in output from the May index figure of 86 was accounted for largely by a sharp reduction in cotton textile mill activity, with an adverse trend also shown by lumber mills and coal mines. In June, 1933, the index stood at 90.

Wholesale prices advanced during June, the board reported, but added this was largely attributable to advancing farm products. Other commodities declined slightly.

CITY REGISTRATION PUSHED TO 17,736

J. A. Couch and Sam Cohen Formally Enter as Council Candidates.

Atlantans Thursday crowded city hall corridors and 683 persons added their names to registration lists, as former Alderman J. Allen Couch qualified for alderman from the fifth ward, and Sam Cohen entered formally as a candidate for council from the tenth ward.

Thursday's registrations pushed the total to 17,736 registrants with but 12 registering hours remaining for potential voters to become qualified to cast ballots in the September 26 primary.

Registration and entry lists will close at noon Saturday and no person can qualify after that time.

J. Henson Tatum, city clerk and registrar, Thursday again warned those who have registered to be certain that state and county poll taxes amounting to $1 a year have been paid. Those who have failed to pay the poll taxes due cannot vote in the primary and they will have no opportunity to rectify the neglect after the books close.

To Be Checked. Every name will be checked against county records and none who have failed to pay the taxes required, namely poll taxes, will be allowed to cast ballots.

Atlantans continued Thursday to urge citizens to qualify and to be ready to vote their convictions in the primary.

Couch was qualified by his son, Thomas J. Couch, who paid the entry fee to Press Winburn, secretary to the city democratic executive committee. Following the qualification, the son issued a statement regarding Couch's entry.

Alderman James E. Bowden, of the fifth, already has qualified to succeed himself. Cohen will oppose Mac Bowen, who already was a formal aspirant for the tenth ward councilmanic nomination.

Statement of Couch. Following is the Couch statement: "To the people of the city of Atlanta:

"To you I announce my candidacy for alderman from the fifth ward subject to the white democratic primary to be held on September 26, 1934.

"Having served in the general council of Atlanta from January 1, 1919, to January 1, 1931, a total of 12 consecutive years, I never missed a regular meeting of the council. One of these years I had the honor to serve Atlanta as mayor pro tem.

"I believe I possess the necessary qualifications for this office. In the past years of my services I did serve, and in the future, if you will honor me with this office, I will serve all of our people, free from animosity or prejudice for or against any person or group of persons. I will give whatever time and talent I may possess in order to make Atlanta a greater and better city.

"In my opinion the people prefer to select their public officials without being molested with cards or paid workers on the streets or at the polls on election day.

"I have proposed to my opponent in person, and now publicly, that we agree to dispense with cards or workers in order that you may make your choice without molestation or annoyance. The responsibility of printing and distributing of cards in this campaign rests with my opponent.

"J. ALLEN COUCH."

20,000 Registrants Urged. Robert P. McClarty, president of the City Club, and W. G. Wright, president of the Lions' Club, issued statements urging citizens to push the registration to at least 20,000 before books close.

"The right of suffrage was won in America through much bloodshed, privation and suffering," McClarty said. "We regard it as a sacred privilege and yet we neglect to exercise our right. It is almost inconceivable that we criticize our officials when we have the authority to name those whom we wish to serve us."

"I cannot too strongly urge citizens to register. I believe it to be a sacred duty that they do so. They also should vote. The American people, under our laws, have a right to select all public servants. They are sovereign."

Wright issued a similar appeal.

"Our organization, the Lions Club, always has believed that to be a good citizen our members should exercise the sacred right to vote," Wright asserted. "We have urged our members to register and also to ask their neighbors, friends and acquaintances to do likewise."

"The time has come when the people of the nation must take more interest in governmental affairs. If we fail to do that, our government will fall into the hands of selfish minorities. Vote your convictions, but vote."

Tatum announced the following third boxes will be open today for the convenience of those who cannot go to the city hall to register:

Park Pharmacy, Woodward avenue and Boulevard, S. E., from 8 a. m. until 3 p. m.; Fivens' Drug Store, Grimes street and Central avenue, from 4 until 7 p. m.; Junt's Store, Grant street and McDonough boulevard, from 3 until 4 p. m.; Wells-Harris Drug Company, 428 McDonough boulevard, from 5 until 6 p. m.

There will be no ward boxes Saturday and all registration will take place at the city hall.

Soldier Faces Quiz In Jepperson Slaying

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—(AP)—A private soldier who had been posted as an army deserter was taken into custody late today and Captain of Police Charles Dullea said he would be questioned about the slaying of Miss Louise Jepperson. Dullea said, however, he didn't believe the man had any connection with the unsolved murder of the Ogden, Utah, girl.

"The man will be questioned, but as far as developments have gone in the case I don't believe he has any connection with the murder of Miss Jepperson," Captain Dullea said.

Police Inspector Allan McGinn and George Engler went to Crissy field and brought the unnamed private to the hall of justice to undergo questioning.

Millard Hickman, 47-year-old marine engineer, was acquitted Wednesday night of the murder of Miss Jepperson. Police subsequently announced they were on the trail of a suspect they believed had killed the girl after attacking her.

Her subject was "My Son." She said she hoped he was listening in Honolulu.

Governor Praises AP For Dillinger Stories

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 26.—(AP)—Governor Clyde L. Herring, of Iowa, has made the following comment on the news handling of the Dillinger story by the Associated Press:

"If every crime story were written as were those on Dillinger's death there would be no talk of gangster heroism. Excellently written, the stories portrayed Dillinger as the rat he really was."

Such stories are of immense benefit in the war on crime. The story beginning 'Dillinger's dead' was an outstanding example of American journalism."

MARRIED MAN SLAYS YOUNG CO-ED, SELF

MIAMI, Fla., July 26.—(AP)—A 21-year-old Kentucky normal school co-ed, Mary Elizabeth Stephens, was shot to death in her home here today by a 40-year-old bus driver, Lawrence Glenn Bridges, who then killed himself.

The slaying and suicide climaxed more than a year of effort by Miss Stephens to break off relations with Bridges after she discovered he was not the single man she first believed, but instead was married and the father of two children, one a girl 19 years old.

The double death also came on the heels of a threat attributed by his widow, Arvelia, to the bus driver, and said to have been uttered during an automobile ride last night by the two women and Bridges.

"If I cut her off, then we'll go to hell together," he was quoted by Mrs. Bridges as saying as both women sought to talk him into returning to a normal domestic setting.

The infatuation apparently started about a year ago, investigators were told, as the girl was a frequent passenger on Bridges' bus as she came and went from her home in Miami shores, a suburb on the northern outskirts of Miami.

After Mrs. Stephens' discovery, both women co-operated in attempting to end the affair, and this strange friendship continued in an exchange of letters by the wife and girl after Miss Stephens left here to attend Western Kentucky Normal school at Bowling Green.

Both Mrs. Bridges and her daughter, Ethlyn, told investigators of the domestic tangle, and the girl said: "You can't blame Mary, she did what she could to straighten this out."

ATTORNEY IS CLEARED OF KIDNAPING CHARGE

LANCASTER, Va., July 26.—(AP)—Kidnaping charges against William C. Halliwell, a Washington attorney, were dropped on a motion of Commonwealth's Attorney W. B. Saunders here when Halliwell appeared in Justice C. S. Towles' juvenile and domestic relations court yesterday.

Halliwell had been accused of kidnaping the children of Mrs. Joseph Douglas. His participation in the "kidnaping" was revealed as little more than legal services to his client, the children's father.

STUDENT IS CONVICTED IN DOUBLE MURDER

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—(AP)—Convicted of murder for the slaying of his mother and brother, Louis Rude Payne, 21-year-old student, faced another superior court trial today in a trial in which a jury will decide whether he is sane.

Late yesterday he was found guilty of hacking to death his mother, Mrs. Carrie L. Payne, and brother, Robert. The jurors made no recommendation, leaving Payne to be hanged unless he is found to have been insane at the time of the double slaying.

Payne, son of a former St. Louis utilities executive, Lucius F. Payne, said he committed the crime because of an "irresistible impulse."

NEGRO SUSPECT HELD IN LOUISIANA KILLING

WINFIELD, La., July 26.—(AP) Eugene Woods, 19-year-old negro, was in an unnamed jail today for safekeeping after a widespread search last night following the discovery of the body of Roy Gorham, 22, late yesterday in a thicket near the farm of his father, J. R. Gorham, two miles from Winfield. Officers said Gorham had apparently died from knife wounds in the body and throat. Gorham, the officials said, had not been seen since Saturday night when he was allegedly in the company of Woods. He was reported drinking with another white youth and two negroes.

COUNCILMAN LYLE BLAMES SPEEDERS FOR ACCIDENT TOLL

Speeding Thursday afternoon was blamed by Councilman George B. Lyle, member of the police committee, for a majority of automotive accidents as he made a radio address praising the present federal government survey of local traffic conditions.

Lyle quoted from survey findings to show that 12 per cent of machines traveling Ponce de Leon avenue from Peachtree street and Moreland avenue exceed the speed limit, while 26 per cent of the cars which use Fair street from Pryor to Moreland avenue violate the 30-mile-an-hour speed law.

The councilman blamed the excessive speeding for a large majority of the 132 accidents which occurred last year on Ponce de Leon and the 105 on the Fair street stretch.

Continuance of such reckless disregard for human life and property will result in "a return measured by an increase in traffic death tolls and in more property damages."

1,000 Attend Colorful Service Held by Greek Archbishop Here

A thousand members of the Church of the Annunciation and neighboring Greek orthodox assemblies stood for two hours in the white and gold auditorium of the church during the archbishop's impressive and colorful liturgy service held Thursday morning. The occasion for the service was the presence in Atlanta of the Rev. Athinagoras, archbishop of the Greek Orthodox church for North and South America.

The archbishop, clad in robes of blue and gold brocade, led the ceremony from the wide scarlet-carpeted platform. Behind him, paneled in the white woodwork, were painted murals of 10 saints under whose images red and white candles were burning. Assisting in the service were 12 priests in white robes banded in blue or green. These priests represented 27 Greek orthodox communities in southern states.

Thursday marked a double occasion for the little Church of the Annunciation. The fifth district conference of Greek churches from 11 states is in session there for a four-day conference which opened Tuesday. Thursday also marked the twelfth anniversary of the founding of the Ahepa, the Greek-American educational association organized by the 1,500 Greeks in Atlanta.

Incense burners filled the air with a heavy odor of roses and musk. After the service, which was chanted in Greek, the archbishop spoke a word of greeting to each church member as they passed in single file to kiss his hand. He had changed from the black and gold robes to a simple black hood and robe. Around his neck was the long gold chain of his rank and in his hand he held a silver-headed cane.

Mrs. Panos Constantinides, whose husband is priest at the Church of the Annunciation, greeted members of the congregation in Greek. Like many of those present, she speaks very little English. With a flashing smile and a gesture of helplessness, she referred visitors with questions about the ceremony to the Rev. Athinagoras.

The church was established in 1902 and the congregation moved into the present building at the corner of Richardson and Pryor streets six years ago. Since that time Atlanta has been made headquarters for the fifth district of the assembly. At the Wednesday session of the conference the delegates voted to put the Greek-American college in Gastonia, N. C. under the direction of the Atlanta district.

The priests who are delegates to the convention are the Rev. Demosthenes Theodosios, of Pensacola, Fla.; the Rev. Metellos Theodosios, of Jacksonville, Fla.; the Rev. Timotheos Theodosios, of Memphis, Tenn.; the Rev. Nikiforos Pavlos, of Raleigh, N. C.; the Rev. Daniel Maravelis, of Houston, Texas; the Rev. Angelopoulos, of Birmingham, Ala.; the Rev. K. Piliros, of Mobile, Ala.; the Rev. John Theodosios, of New Orleans, La.; the Rev. Nicholas, of Cincinnati, Ohio; and the Rev. Germanos Theodosios, of Gastonia, N. C.

The convention closed with a luncheon meeting of the newly elected board of directors. No definite decision was made regarding the 1935 convention city, although the invitations were extended by Savannah, Ga.; Nashville, Tenn., and Miami, Fla.

TEXTILE LABOR SURVEY LAUNCHED BY COFFEE

Report of Conditions in Southeast To Be Given National Board.

Co-operating with the national labor board in its investigation of the entire textile labor situation, Frank E. Coffee, secretary of the regional labor board here, is making a survey of the textile labor situation in the southeast.

While his survey includes the textile mills, it primarily affects related textile industries over which the board has supervision. He will forward his survey to the national board.

The national investigation was brought about because of labor disputes in various southern mills, including Alabama, where 15,000 textile workers are on strike.

Coffee's investigation is not with a view of intervening in any strike but for the general purpose of supplying information. His board has jurisdiction only over hosiery and knitting mills.

Chairman Lloyd Garrison, of the national board, revealed that for the present at least the Alabama and other strikes remain in the hands of the cotton and textile industrial labor board, although the regional labor board survey might indicate some sort of action by the national board.

The Atlanta regional board Thursday recommended that the Trenton Mills, Inc., of Trenton, Tenn., reinstate Ralph Knox, discharged employee, by August 1 or find him employment in another mill.

Knox complained to the board that he had been discharged in violation of the NRA's collective bargaining clause. The board's decision quoted the company as saying "he was endeavoring to create a strike-walkout for higher wages and his foreman let him go."

Open forum discussions on code questions were held at the Thursday convention of the Southern Wholesale Confectioners' Association at the Baltimore hotel.

The convention of the association, and H. H. Payne, newly elected president of the association, told how local compliance.

The jobs and manufacturers' representatives present voiced their appreciation for the entertainment furnished during their visit to Atlanta through the work of guest committees headed by W. A. Yarborough and Mrs. H. H. Payne. James J. Rees, retiring president of the association, and Secretary McMillan were presented with gifts by representatives of candy manufacturers.

The convention closed with a luncheon meeting of the newly elected board of directors. No definite decision was made regarding the 1935 convention city, although the invitations were extended by Savannah, Ga.; Nashville, Tenn., and Miami, Fla.

THREE MEALS A DAY

KITCHEN TESTED RECIPES by Sally Saver

TOMATO AND POTATO WON'T MARRY WELL

Although close members of the same family, the tomato and potato are as far apart as poles when it comes to amalgamating them. This at least was the experience of Luther Burbank, famous horticulturist. He finally succeeded in creating a tomato, which he called a fruit, not a vegetable.

The tomato may not "marry" easily, but it does lend itself to combinations with other vegetables. No vegetable is more popular for salads. Here are a few recipes that show the extreme versatility of the tomato. If real mayonnaise is used, the full flavor of the tomato is brought out.

Tomato Aspic With Peas.
Four teaspoons gelatin, 2 tablespoon cold water, 2 cups cooked tomatoes, 1 teaspoon scraped onion, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1-2 cups cooked green peas, 1 teaspoon onion, finely chopped, 1-4 teaspoon salt, French dressing, double-whipped mayonnaise.

Soak gelatin in cold water. Cook tomatoes and season 10 minutes and strain off liquid. Dissolve gelatin in hot liquid. Pour into individual ring molds. Chill until firm.

Tomato Salad.
Two tomatoes, 1-2 cup sliced cucumber, 1 small bunch red radishes, 1-2 cup double-whipped mayonnaise. Cut each tomato lengthwise into 8 even sections. Marinate tomato sections and cucumber slices in French dressing in ice box. Drain. Place crisp lettuce on individual plates. Arrange tomato sections on lettuce. Pile cucumber slices in center of each salad. Garnish with radish roses. Serve with mayonnaise. Serves 4.

Chicken and Vegetable Salad.
One and one-half cups cold cooked chicken, diced; 3-4 cup celery, diced; 3-4 cup cold boiled potatoes, diced; 1-3 cups sweetened condensed milk, 1-2 cup water, vanilla wafers. Melt the chocolate in a double boiler. Add the sweetened condensed milk and stir five minutes, until the mixture thickens. Add water. Line an oblong loaf pan with wax paper and cover the bottom of the pan with a thin layer of chocolate. Then add layers until the chocolate mixture is all used. Top with a layer of wafers. Let season in the refrigerator 24 hours. To serve, turn out on a small platter and carefully remove the wax paper. Cut in slices. May be garnished with whipped cream. Serves eight.

Marshmallow Refrigerator Loaf.
One-half pound marshmallows, 1-4 cup water, 1-2 cup sweetened condensed milk, 1-2 cup chopped nuts, 1-2 cup pitted dates, 2-3 cups graham cracker crumbs. Cut marshmallows in quarters and pour water over them. Add sweetened condensed milk, chopped nuts and chopped dates. Blend. Add cracker crumbs and blend thoroughly. Form into a loaf or loaf about six inches long and three inches in diameter, and place in a deep mold, lined with wax paper. Let ripen 12 hours in refrigerator before serving. Serve in slices. May be garnished with whipped cream. This loaf will keep moist several days.

Legion's Best Drum, Bugle Corps To Be Picked Here October 20

A contest to select the best American Legion drum and bugle corps in the United States will be held in Atlanta on the night of Saturday, October 20.

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unsolicited letter:

"Your ALL-BRAN surely relieves constipation. I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it."

"For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."—Mrs. Louise Johnson, 1433 Forest Street, Denver, Colorado.

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. With it in the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

October 20, it was announced Thursday night following a meeting of directors of the junior chamber of commerce and officers of Atlanta Post Number 1, of the legion.

The two organizations will jointly sponsor the event, and prizes valued at $1,000 will be offered. The plan is to entertain Legionnaires who will be en route to the national convention of the legion to be held in Miami October 22-25 inclusive. It is estimated that more than 100,000 persons will pass through Georgia en route to the convention, and it planned to entertain as many as possible here on the afternoon, and night of the 20th.

A parade will be held in downtown Atlanta during the afternoon and the drum and bugle corps competition will be held either at Spiller's field or Grant field, at night beneath flood lights. All posts in America will be asked to compete. Due to the shortness of time that the delegates will be in the city, no other entertainment other than sightseeing trips have been planned.

Kenneth Murrell, commander of Post No. 1, and George L. Baker, junior vice commander, met with the officers and the board of directors of the junior chamber of commerce, headed by Clifford Hendrix, president, Thursday afternoon and decided definitely to hold the contest. A general committee from both organizations will be named later.

LONG-ALLEN MEN GIVEN ORLEANS TAX OFFICES

Appointments by Governor To Be Contested by City Heads.

NEW ORLEANS, July 26.—(AP)—The state administration of Governor O. K. Allen and Senator Huey P. Long and the New Orleans city government were thrown into a fresh dispute today when Governor Allen announced appointment of two New Orleans assessors and city authorities promptly refused to recognize the appointments as legal.

Defeating Long-Allen candidates, the New Orleans old regulars of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley last spring put their full slate of city assessors into office for new four-year terms. One of these, John F. Tims, of the sixth assessing district, died several weeks ago, and another, Frank H. Moss, of the fourth district, was stricken with a fatal heart attack last night.

Today Senator Long, from the governor's office in Baton Rouge, made public a ruling from the attorney general that the governor had the right to fill the vacancies by direct appointment rather than call a special election. Governor Allen immediately named two lieutenants of the Long organization to the posts.

Henry Ottot, head of the New Orleans branch of the state auto license bureau, was named an assessor vice Tims and State Representative J. E. Weber, of Orleans, who was defeated for an assessorship by Moss in last January's primary, was appointed to the Moss vacancy.

Mayor Walmsley was away from the city on vacation, but Acting Mayor A. Miles Pratt lost no time in announcing the two appointments would not be recognized and that special elections would be demanded. Court action to prevent the Long-Allen appointees from taking office was indicated.

Air Board Tour Starts Today; Group Is Due Here Saturday

All Members of Commission, With Exception of Chairman Clark Howell, To Take 12,000-Mile Trip

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, July 26.—Final plans were announced today by the federal aviation commission for its 12,000-mile inspection tour of leading airports and aerial transportation systems of the country.

Leaving Washington early tomorrow morning in a giant Ford transport of the bureau of air commerce, the chairman, will go first to Langley Field, Va., for an inspection of army air corps facilities there.

Atlanta will be the second aviation center to be visited, with plans calling for the commission spending Saturday night in the city after arriving around 4 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The commission will make a survey of the important air lines serving Atlanta and inspect local fields and facilities.

Because of the accumulation of affairs of the commission and his forthcoming trip abroad, where he will study air conditions and aerial transportation systems of the leading continental countries, Chairman Howell will not join the other members in their flight over the United States. He will remain behind in Washington for a few days before sailing from New York to Rome on August 4.

Preparatory to his Rome voyage, Mr. Howell today conferred with officials of the Italian embassy, who tendered full co-operation in connection with his mission.

To View Maxwell Field. After spending the night in Atlanta, the remaining members of the commission will proceed Sunday morning to Montgomery, Ala., where the army air corps station at Maxwell field will be inspected. The official group will leave there in the afternoon for Pensacola, spending Sunday night at the naval air station there.

From Pensacola the commission goes to Miami, via Jacksonville, for lunch and gas on Monday, remaining in Miami until Wednesday before departing for Central America, via Pan-American Airways. The various airports of the Caribbean area will be given close study as an important link in our air transportation service to the Latin republics of the South American continent.

Finally, after visiting Mexico City and other capitals of the Central American region, the commission will go to Brownsville, San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth, Tucson, San Diego, and then to Los Angeles for a four-day stop, beginning August 11. The itinerary from Los Angeles up the Pacific coast and back east has not yet been definitely announced.

While the commission is making the American tour of inspection preliminary to formal open hearings here in September, Chairman Howell will be undertaking a similar survey of air conditions and systems in Italy, Great Britain and France. Arrangements have been made by government officials to have the various commercial attaches abroad furnish him with all data and information on aviation there.

Members To Be Here. The members of the commission who will be in Atlanta Saturday incident to the American tour of inspection are Edward P. Warner, vice chairman, a former assistant secretary of the navy in charge of aeronautics and a former instructor of aeronautics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology—one of the

GRANDSON OF SUNDAY KILLED IN ACCIDENT

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—(AP)—John M. Sunday, grandson of Billy Sunday, noted evangelist, died early today at the Seaside hospital, in Long Beach, from injuries suffered last night in a traffic accident.

Sunday, 18 years old and the son of Harriet Mason Sunday, Los Angeles, was in an automobile with Miss Patsy Carman, Glendale, police said, when the machine collided with an automobile driven by Irene Bray, of Long Beach.

All but Sunday escaped injury. leading experts on the subject in the country.

Franklin K. Lane Jr., of California, son of the former secretary of interior under the Wilson administration, an American flyer during the World War and a recognized authority on aviation.

Albert J. Beres, of California, recently identified with the Motion Picture Producers' Association and formerly prominently connected with labor organization activities of Washington and the Pacific coast.

Colonel J. Carroll Cone, executive secretary of the commission and director of air regulations of the air commerce bureau of the department of commerce, is scheduled to go as far as Miami on the trip. A former World War flyer, he had planned to act as pilot on the trip but the necessity for his remaining in Washington has prompted the substitution of E. F. Cuitrell as pilot. Mr. Cuitrell is a former air line inspector of the air commerce bureau and is regarded as one of its most expert pilots.

CHOATE, GOVERNORS DISCUSS CRIME ISSUE

Keenan Assails Pardon and Parole System Now in Use.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 26.—(AP)—The efforts of the federal government to combat the bootlegger and the criminal were described to the governors of approximately one-third of the states in annual conference here today by J. H. Choate Jr. and Joseph E. Keenan.

Choate, director of the federal alcohol control administration, pictured the bootlegger as depriving the government of large returns in revenue by dispensing more liquor than now is moved through legal channels; Keenan, an assistant attorney-general dealing mainly with kidnappings, discussed state pardon and parole systems, some of which he said made the fight against crime "a losing battle." "We capture one notorious criminal one day and release another the next day," he said.

Choate, urging a concentrated warfare upon the bootlegger, said the most effective means of combating illicit liquor distribution was to "enable the legal industry to supply the demand as cheaply . . . at all times and places as the bootlegger." He suggested a reduction in all taxes, tariffs and license charges and of every form of regulation that imposes expense upon the legal industry and make it hard for the customer to buy legal liquor.

Chatsworth School Destroyed by Fire

CHATSORTH, Ga., July 26.—The two-story brick high school building here was totally destroyed by fire last night during an electric storm, when the roof of the building was set on fire by a flash of lightning. The building cost $45,000. It was practically covered by insurance.

MADISON BELL NAMES FLEETWOOD MANAGER

Editor Assumes Charge of Campaign of Candidate for Comptroller-General.

Milton L. Fleetwood, editor of the Cartersville Tribune-News, Thursday assumed direction of the campaign of his fellow townsman, Madison Bell, for comptroller general of Georgia. Mr. Fleetwood's appointment was announced early in the day and he assumed charge of the campaign in the afternoon.

Announcement of Mr. Fleetwood's selection was made following a meeting of Mr. Bell's supporters in Cartersville and from over the state at his headquarters in the Ansley hotel here. Mr. Fleetwood assumed direction of the campaign at once.

In making the announcement, Mr. Bell issued the following statement: "At a conference of my friends and neighbors in my home county of Bartow yesterday it was agreed among them that Mr. Milton L. Fleetwood, editor and publisher of the Tribune-News, of Cartersville, would be the ideal friend to handle my campaign for comptroller general of the state."

"A large delegation came to Atlanta from Cartersville today and met with numerous of my friends from over the state. Immediately when Mr. Fleetwood's name was proposed I met with instant and unanimous approval. Naturally when the name of such an outstanding Georgian was suggested to me I was more than gratified to accept the opportunity of appointing him. Mr. Fleetwood was communicated with and he came to Atlanta and joined the conference which culminated in his acceptance of the leadership of my campaign."

"I am more than happy to announce the appointment of Mr. Fleetwood as manager of my campaign. Mr. Fleetwood will be in charge of my headquarters at 814 and 816 Ansley hotel, where he will be glad to meet my friends from over the state at any time."

"I am in this campaign to win and the encouraging reports that I have already received from over the state assure me that I will win."

Mr. Fleetwood's statement accepting the appointment follows:

"It gives me pleasure to accept appointment as campaign manager for my friend and fellow townsman, Mr. Madison Bell, candidate for comptroller general of the state. I have known Mr. Bell well and most favorably for a long number of years and believe that he is eminently qualified for the office he seeks."

"We are opening headquarters immediately in the Ansley hotel from where we will direct a campaign of honesty and integrity, confining ourselves to the issues and to the issues only, maintaining at all times the greatest respect for all parties interested in the campaign, whether they are our friends or our opponents."

"We have many important matters to take up with the people and we will discuss these from time to time throughout the campaign. We pledge ourselves to give the people an up-right and a clean campaign. We think we have the better man to offer and we feel that by September 12 we will demonstrate that fact to the overwhelming majority of voters."

PRISONER-PATIENT FLEES FROM GRADY, CAUGHT IN CHASE

An attempted escape by a prisoner who was confined at Grady hospital awaiting an operation, was prevented shortly before 8 o'clock Thursday morning by Patrolman J. H. Smith, who gave chase in his own automobile and shot the tires from under a machine in which the prisoner-patient was fleeing.

T. J. Whitehead, of 621 Chestnut street, a prisoner at Fulton Tower, was transferred to the hospital for medical attention Thursday morning. He obtained his clothes and made a dash past nurses and orderlies. Entering a slow cruising car, he sped away. Patrolman Smith and a negro orderly gave chase. When bullets struck the tires of the car in which Whitehead was riding, the machine came to a halt. L. J. Baggett, of 1085 Euclid avenue, N. E., was arrested as the driver of the auto, and was overpowered according to Patrolman Smith, when he resisted being taken into custody.

Baggett faced with charges of resisting arrest, running over two red lights, and aiding a prisoner to escape, told Recorder A. W. Callaway Thursday afternoon that he thought Smith was a hardy trying to overtake him. He was exonerated on the red light charges but fined $7 for resisting arrest. He was ordered held for the state courts under a $500 bond for aiding in an escape.

GEORGIA REPTILES WILL BE EXHIBITED AT MEETING HERE

More than 50 species of Georgia reptiles will be exhibited to the public at the final annual meeting of the Georgia Society of Naturalists which opens next October 13 at Emory University.

The meeting will be held in two parts—an exhibit of reptiles found in the state and a program of non-technical papers dealing with the reptiles of the world, both living and extinct. The program will be accompanied by motion pictures showing prehistoric animals.

Specimens of reptiles are now being collected from all parts of the state and are being held alive for the exhibit.

The sponsors of the meeting hope to make the affair annual in order to acquaint the public with the reptile and other wild life of Georgia. Lucien Harris Jr., of Atlanta, is president of the society, and H. A. Carter, state zoologist, is chairman of the committee in charge of the meeting.

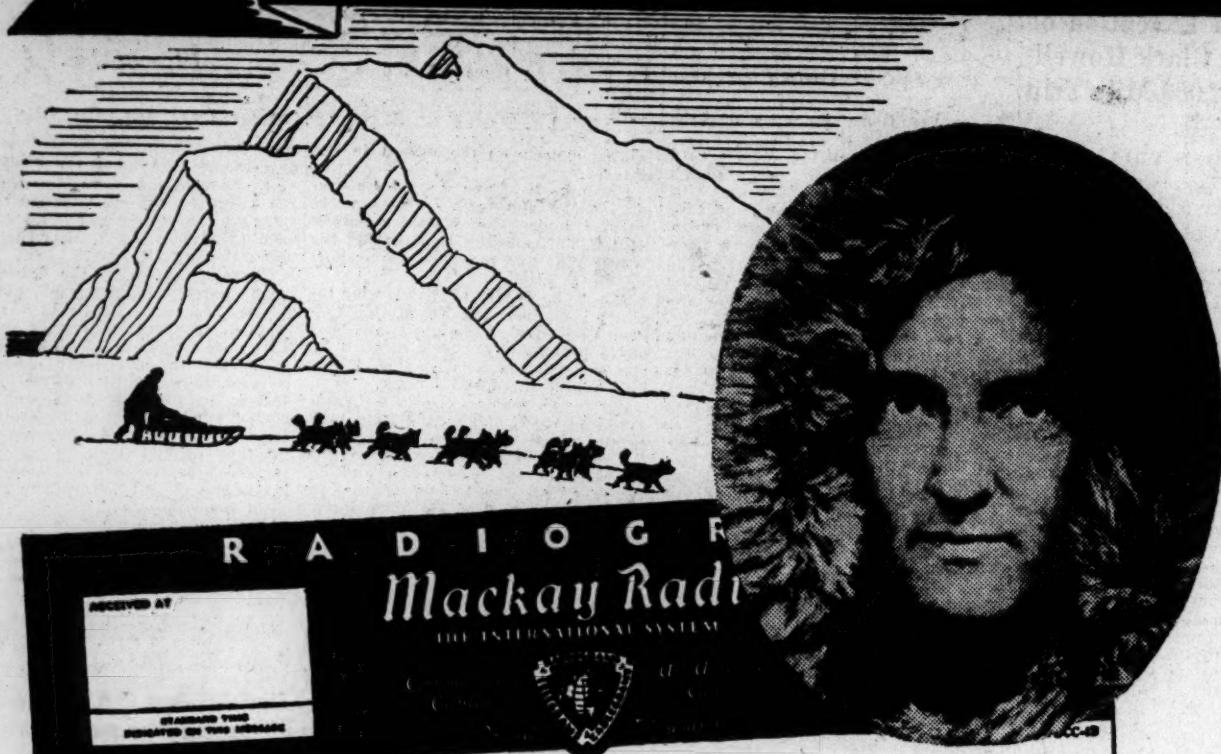

RESTAURANT HEADS TO MEET TONIGHT, DISCUSS PROBLEMS

A meeting for discussion and formulation of plans to overcome existing problems in the restaurant trade will be held in hall No. 2 of the Chamber of Commerce building at 8 o'clock tonight. It will be attended by Atlanta restaurant operators.

The meeting is to be one of a series of meetings to be held through the state under the sponsorship of the Georgia Restaurant Association. Georgia has been divided into 10 separate districts and meetings are to be held in each district.

Restaurant operators in Georgia are requested to write J. R. Hogsd, secretary of the Georgia Restaurant Association, P. O. Box 203, Atlanta, so that he may arrange the meetings in each of the districts.

Tons of Phillips Delicious Soups and Vegetables accompanied Admiral Byrd's Second Expedition to the South Pole. Repeat orders have rushed additional shipments for the enjoyment and nourishment of these hardy explorers. Scenes show unloading in the Antarctic of Phillips Delicious and other carefully selected products.

The special Phillips Delicious airplane with which was inaugurated the innovation of crop inspection from the air—to make Phillips Delicious Foods even more Delicious! Katrina Canning, pilot, is an accomplished veteran of the air, holding many trophies for her skill and daring.

BYRD radios tribute to quality of Phillips Delicious and to inauguration of crop inspection from air

News of importance travels fast—and far. Even to that lonely blizzard-swept shack of Admiral Byrd in his advance post near the South Pole. And this intrepid explorer, foreseeing the effect of this news, a great forward step in fine food preparation, wires Colonel Phillips his congratulations.

It all started down in Cambridge, Maryland, in the sun-soaked heart of that fertile farming section. Here, in the executive offices of one of the Nation's largest packers of quality soups and vegetables, the Phillips Packing Company, the idea was conceived and the plan was put into operation.

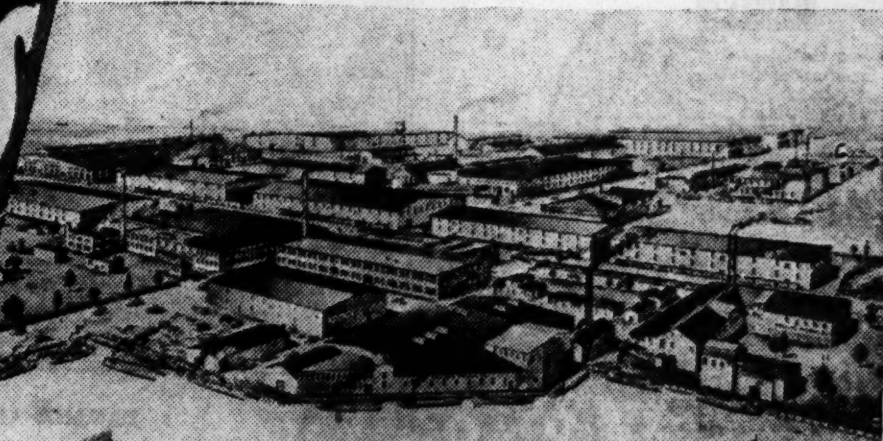

How can our fine foods be made finer? How can all those particular people who insist upon Phillips Delicious Soups and Vegetables be provided with flavors even more richly tempting? How can all of that wholesome just-out-of-the-garden goodness be saved and sealed into every can of Phillips Delicious?

And the answer was found! An innovation, ultra-modern in every respect. Airplanes! Inspect ripening crops from the air! Set propellers whirling to provide newer and even more enjoyable taste thrills. Veteran inspectors of the Phillips field staff fly in relays from early morning until late evening. They can now determine, as in no other way, the precise moment for crop cutting. The most delicate freshness can be captured. The most superlative flavors can be counted on.

The importance of crop harvesting time has always been recognized at Phillips. To decide upon the proper moment requires the utmost in skill and knowledge. Even a few hours may mark the difference—between a crop of usual quality and one which in its true nature-processed taste comes fully up to the Phillips Delicious standards.

This latest Phillips innovation is proving successful beyond expectations. The master chefs and laboratory specialists—and great numbers of those who know good foods—are already reporting an even higher quality, an even finer flavor than they would naturally expect from Phillips Delicious. Without a doubt, when that shipment arrives at Little America, Admiral Byrd will receive with it a new understanding of the true meaning of garden fresh quality.

In jitters or private cars last April when they were out four days, the board of arbitration's recommendations, now in, displeased them and they walked out again. There was some picketing.

What will happen to the Tubize Chatillon rayon mills, employing a maximum of 2,500 at Hopewell, Va., was up in the air last night. The company has ordered the strikers to quit a bluff.

All was quiet on the Pittsburgh front where aluminum workers and employers will resume negotiations next month hoping to avert a strike.

OLSON CALLS MILITARY AN ULTIMATUM FAULT MINNEAPOLIS, July 26.—(AP)—The heavy rule of military rule was laid down on striking truck drivers and their employers today.

Governor Floyd B. Olson placed 4,000 National Guardsmen in control of the city for preservation of law and order during the strike.

It was the first time in history that martial rule has been declared in Minnesota, the governor resorting to this drastic step when employers, condemning what they said were "communist leaders" failed to accept without restrictions, the peace ultimatum given both sides by federal mediators.

Regulations covered by military rule were announced by Adjutant General E. A. Walsh. For the most part, residents of the city were unaffected by the orders, which prohibited movement of commercial trucks except necessities, unless by permit, and forbade outdoor gatherings of more than 100 persons unless officially permitted.

Courts to Function. City and county law enforcement authorities were subordinated to military. Civil courts will function as usual. Vehicles moving in interstate commerce also will be allowed to operate.

Troops in full equipment began moving into the city in force to prevent further outbreaks. A man was fatally wounded and 67 others hurt, most of them shot, when police fired on strikers attacking a loaded truck last Friday.

Governor Olson proclaimed martial rule soon after word was received of the vote on the controversy by both sides. Terms of settlement had been drafted by the Rev. Francis J. Haas, E. H. Dunnigan, federal mediators.

Employers rejected as wage scale provision, stipulating 4-1-2 cents an hour for inside workers, help and platform men and 5-2-1 cents an hour for drivers. Employees, on the other hand, cheered the vote when their 1,300 ballot showed 1,475 to accept the mediators' plan in full and without reservations.

To Continue Mediation. When the employers' advisory committee defied the governor's order that the entire plan be accepted without reservations, or military rule would be decreed, the chief executive said within an hour.

He expressed hope that strike negotiations will continue and that a settlement may be arranged by Haas and Dunnigan at the earliest possible moment.

Father Haas said mediators would continue efforts to adjust differences. In their reply to the mediators, the employers said they would deal with this "whole strike" as the result of misrepresentation, coercion and intimidation.

Governors' Reply. Before the employers had disclosed their stand, the governor had issued a reply to their criticism of his threat of martial rule, made yesterday.

He branded the Citizens' Alliance "a small clique of men who hate all organized labor and are determined to crush it," adding:

"I do not agree with you that the plea for a living wage by a family man receiving only $12 a week is answered by calling that man a communist." He promised an investigation into last Friday's outbreak.

Simultaneously, Chief of Police Michael Johannes announced two men, who he said were James P. Cannon, editor of The Militant, New York communist publication, and Max Schachtman, editor of the New Internationalist, were in custody.

The police, the chief said, also seized papers in their possession which showed a connection between communists and the Minneapolis strike and purporting to reveal the collapse of the San Francisco general strike, communists turned out attention here to "put things over big in Minneapolis."

STOCK YARDS CLOSED AS STRIKE HOLDS CHICAGO, July 26.—(AP)—The important business of buying and selling meat in the Chicago stock yards came to a complete standstill today as the management debated what steps it would take toward a settlement of the handlers' strike.

The cowboys, who quit their posts Monday, have agreed to resume their tasks if a certain group of employees is granted wage increases and minimum hours are established for all. Yesterday they agreed to a clean up of the glut of live stock created by the first days of cessation of activities but today transactions were halted again. The next move toward reopening the market was up to the employers, the Union Stock Yards and Meat Co. H. T. Henkle, general manager of the concern, promised to reveal the concern's stand soon.

Meanwhile, pressure was brought to bear from several sources to bring an end to the dispute and a lift in embargo on live stock shipments to the great market.

Conciliators from the labor department and officials of the Chicago regional labor board sought to bring peace to the industry. Lloyd Garrison, chairman of the national labor relations board at Washington, declared his intentions of dispatching representatives to the scene if the situation fails to improve.

Only cattle purchased by the government from drouthy-stricken areas and small lots of live stock billed direct to packers were in the usually teeming yards today.

The 800 striking handlers contented themselves with idling about the gates, hiding their time until the management makes known what it intends to do.

ROCK HILL WEAVERS STRIKE IN LABOR TILT ROCK HILL, S. C., July 26.—(AP)—Weavers of the Industrial Cotton Mill here walked out this afternoon as the result of what they said was a breach of agreement by the management, and a short while later the weaving department, employing about 700 workers, was closed down.

The workers said that under an agreement made last year, seconds due to the fault of the looms were not to be charged against the weaver, but that now they were being charged to the weaver. They said they had sought to have the matter adjusted and avoid a walkout, but failed.

There was no statement from the management.

50 HURT IN RIOTING IN CIGAR PLANT STRIKE YORK, Pa., July 26.—(AP)—Fifty persons were injured, one seriously, in a strike riot tonight at the T. E. Brooks cigar factory in Red Lion.

Police said the disturbance was precipitated by an attempt to remove finished cigars from the factory. After a battle lasting more than an hour, sheriff's deputies escorted from the plant an empty truck which was to have carried the cigars.

Declaring "unionized" cigar makers have the town "in a state of siege," Burgess Arthur McQuigan said he would ask that state police be sent to Red Lion.

ARBITRATION TO BE SOUGHT IN HOPEWELL CONTROVERSY WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—The federal labor relations board today determined upon an attempt to bring the Hopewell (Va.) rayon strike to arbitration.

How to get 2,000 affected workers of the Tubize-Chatillon Company back to their jobs as soon as possible, the board decided to defer formal Blue Eagle review proceedings in favor of mediation.

F. D. R. REVIEWS TROOPS IN HAWAII

Colorful Peacetime Military Demonstration Staged for President.

HONOLULU, July 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt sat with thousands of other spectators this afternoon in the stands on the windswept plateau of Schofield barracks, and reviewed 15,000 officers and men of the United States army in what army officers said was the most impressive peacetime military demonstration in the history of the United States.

To the swelling strains of bands, the roar of tractors tugging at mobile guns, and the thunder of full planes that swept past, the full strength of the army's forces at Schofield, the largest post in the nation, tramped or rode past the reviewing stand.

Major General Brian H. Wells, commanding officer of the army's Hawaiian department, sat on his mount in front of the president's box and called the khaki-clad ranks to attention while the president, seated in an automobile, was driven about the field inspecting the rigidly drawn-up troops.

Reviews Troops. After the president took his place in his box, troops moved in a huge parade of the Hawaiian division, commanded by Major General Halsted Dorey, who was accompanied by Lieutenant Colonel John N. Greely, his chief of staff.

In order, the twenty-first infantry brigade, the twenty-second brigade, and the third engineers, passed. Next came the combined wagon trains of the dismounted units.

The eleventh field artillery brigade, followed in line, then came the combined trains of the field artillery brigades, followed by the eleventh signal company and the eleventh ordnance company, combined as one unit and mounted in trucks, and the 11th tank company, completing the Hawaiian division.

Next was the 55th coast artillery, with its big mobile 155-millimeter gun, the 41st and the 16th coast artillery. The 44th coast artillery, the army's largest anti-aircraft regiment, with its motorized guns, machine guns, and locators was next.

The review was completed by 80 airplanes of the 18th composite wing in flights of six planes echeloned in altitude, the lowest within 10 feet of the ground. Following the passing in review, the planes of the 18th pursuit group climbed high and in formation made the letters "F. R." in the sky, and passed over Schofield barracks, and on over Honolulu in that formation.

The president received the salute and left for Honolulu by motor ship, accompanied by Governor Joseph B. Poindexter, of Hawaii, with a reception to follow later at Washington Place, the governor's official residence, former home of Queen Liliuokalani.

The day's program was run off without a hitch. The cruiser Houston, the president's vacation ship, appeared off Diamond Head in the early morning and was saluted by a mass flight of 130 army and navy planes. It entered into the harbor, followed by the convoy cruiser New Orleans, in time to dock at the scheduled 9 a. m.

Steel Strike Accord. An agreement between the Republic Steel Corporation and three locals of the Amalgamated Association of Steel and Tin Workers, which may bring a new wage agreement was announced tonight by the national steel labor relations board.

The Republic Steel Corporation has mills at Warren and Niles, Ohio, and at Moline, Ill. It recently refused to renew a wage agreement with the union.

The national steel labor relations board, named by President Roosevelt to aid in settlement of controversies with steel workers and their employers, said the "steel office" to settle the dispute of the Amalgamated Association of Steel, Iron and Tin Workers, of Warren, Ohio, and De Forest Lodge, of Niles, Ohio, reached an accord which the board regards as satisfactory.

"It is understood a like accord will apply to the Sylvan lodge, at Moline, Ill.," it was added.

Details of the settlement, board members said, are yet to be worked out, "but the parties are a unit on the principle."

TVA Will Purchase Knoxville Properties

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 26.—(AP)—A contract covering purchase of the Tennessee Public Service Company electric properties in Knoxville and East Tennessee Valley Authority, David E. Lillenthal, director in charge of power, announced tonight.

The contract has been signed by the power company. It does not include the Knoxville street railway system.

Actual transfer of the properties is contingent upon bondholders turning in their bonds at the issue price before August 21. A provision is made in the contract to protect the city of Knoxville against extended delay in receiving the benefits of TVA electricity.

The provision gives each party of the contract the right to cancel its obligations if litigation or other contingency arises which in the judgment of either party will unduly delay completion of the purchase.

Purchase price of the properties was set at $6,088,636.

which have been opposed to rate cuts have been increased by Comptroller General William B. Harrison. In the cases of the eight independent telephone companies which obtained an injunction against the rate decreases, the assessments were hiked between 200 and 450 per cent.

Other utilities which are opposing rate slashes have had their assessments increased and arbiters have failed to make an agreement. No umpires have been named in other cases as the rate orders still are in litigation.

The ninth telephone company seeking an injunction, the Georgia Continental, still has its appeal pending before the superior court. The judges having the matter under advisement are Judges Vyrlyn B. Moore, Edgar E. Pomeroy and E. D. Thomas. It is not known when a decision will be made in this case.

Issues May Be Given Jury. John T. Goree and B. D. Murphy, assistant attorneys general representing the public service commission, are expected to ask that the issues involved in the injunction proceedings be laid before a jury or before an arbiter but they had taken no action Thursday.

Because one of the judges, Judge Thomas, in granting the temporary injunction, said that the commission was under duress from Governor Talmadge and therefore disqualified to act on rate hikes, it is expected that phase of the case at least will be taken before the supreme court at once.

GREIF WILL DEFY NRA LABEL ORDER

Washington Is Challenged After Withholding of Firm's Blue Eagle.

BALTIMORE, July 26.—(AP)—Leonard Weinberg, attorney for L. Greif & Brother, Inc., today declared the company would continue to use the NRA label in the clothing it manufactures despite the order from Washington that the company's Blue Eagle be withheld.

NRA authorities in Washington yesterday ordered the men's clothing code authority to withhold the Blue Eagle from the Greif company on the ground that it had not paid the wages above the minimum as ordered by the authority.

Before the order was issued, however, Weinberg had obtained from the United States district court here an order temporarily restraining NRA and federal authorities in Maryland from depriving the company of the Blue Eagle or prosecuting it for alleged code violations.

"Up to this time we have received no notice from the NRA or anybody else connected with the government that in defiance of the order of the United States district court there would be any interference with the use of L. Greif & Brother, Inc., of NRA labels or the Blue Eagle," stated Weinberg.

"We might, however, say that L.

Girl Calming Kitten Killed by Lightning

FORT PAYNE, Ala., July 26.—(AP)—During an electrical storm early today little Martha Stallings, 11, was holding a frightened little kitten on the front porch of her home—protecting her pet from the storm. There was a splintering crash—the kitten's protector her kitten—the lightning killed her too.

The little girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Stallings, of Fayette, about nine miles from Fort Payne. Her mother was seated on the porch also but escaped injury when the bolt killed the child and her kitten.

Greif & Bros. Inc. shall continue to manufacture clothing, to deliver all the orders that it receives and that the garments will continue to contain the NRA labels, under the authority of the restraining order issued by United States Justice Julius G. Coleman and W. Calvin Chesnut, until the contrary is ordered by the court.

Though the court granted the restraining order as far as the federal officials in Maryland were concerned, it denied the petition to restrain General Hugh S. Johnson and authorities in Washington, on the ground they were outside the court's jurisdiction.

NRA OFFICIALS TO "ACT" ON GREIF FIRM DEFIANCE

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—NRA officials said today they were prepared "to act" if L. Greif & Brother, Inc., of Baltimore, should continue to use NRA clothing labels in defiance of an order withdrawing this right.

What that action might be for the moment was not definitely determined. Legal experts said there was no precedent for such a case, but indicated the firm probably would be prosecuted if it ignored the order.

ANNUAL ROUND-UP OF WILD PONIES
HELD ON ISLAND

CHINCOTEAGUE, Va., July 26.—(AP)—Cowboys who rode to work in barges and pursued their quarry in sputtering motor boats today rounded up the wild ponies of Chincoteague and Assateague islands and later displayed their versatility in contests ranging from bronco busting to swimming.

It was Chincoteague's big annual holiday and visitors from over a wide area came to see the unique event—a western rodeo, with variations, staged on a windswept Atlantic coastal island.

Small, shaggy, wild ponies descended, says legend, from stock carried by a wrecked Spanish merchantman centuries ago, were sought in this morning's round-up as fishermen, turned cowboys for a day, went about their work without benefit of chaps or spurs. Bare-footed or in hip-boots they mounted their little wild steeds and were towed in a float from Chincoteague to Assateague, the neighboring island where most of the ponies run at large during the year, subsisting on the salt marsh grasses.

After riders had driven the wild ponies into a funnel-shaped corral with its mouth at the water's edge, and then into the channel, other men in power boats kept them swimming in a straight line to Chincoteague island, where they were roped, branded and offered for sale to anyone who thought he was capable of holding the full end of a rope attached to a near approach to concentrated dynamite set on four legs.

OPEN-MONDS JULY 28 URGED BY PITTMAN

Candidate Says Next Legislative Session Will Be Important.

CORDELE, Ga., July 26.—Declaring that the 1935 session of legislature "will be the most memorable in many years," Judge Claude Pittman, gubernatorial candidate, today asked voters to refrain from sending to the legislature a man told that "he's got to do everything I tell him to do."

"I may make mistakes," he said, "and when I do, I want the people through their legislature to disagree with me and offer constructive ideas." Judge Pittman charged his opponent, Governor Talmadge, had violated his oath of office and asserted that "Talmadge is afraid of the day of reckoning he now is facing."

Continuing, he said: "Governor Talmadge doesn't want an honest legislature. He doesn't want to run the risk of having the representatives of the people investigate his conduct and his official actions for fear of impeachment."

"And I tell you that he sees the handwriting on the wall, and no deed and no action is too desperate for him to take in an effort to avert defeat."

Judge Pittman referred again to the highway department, which he charges is dominated by John Whitely, LaGrange contractor, and said:

"This one instance alone, wherein Talmadge not only countenanced but encouraged defiance of the president's code giving the laborer a living wage, is enough to condemn him in the minds of fair-minded citizens."

"John Whitely knows that his slave-driving days will soon be over. And after January 1, when I am governor, they will be over for good."

Talmadge Days "Numbered." Again Pittman repeated that "the days of the House of Talmadge are numbered."

"I am putting them on notice today that all their money, and all of their intimidation, and all of their promises that they will divide the spoils will be of no avail. The people of Georgia are aroused as they have never been since the carpet-bagger days, and I tell you today that no group, not even the carpet-baggers, have lived more extravagantly off the people's money."

Judge Pittman said his campaign was gaining momentum daily, adding: "I can't match the huge campaign fund of the House of Talmadge. I cannot use state money or hire people to go out and talk for me. I can't promise jobs and roads. I'm having a hard time paying my campaign bills. But I'm grateful now and I'll be grateful the rest of my days to the people of Georgia, for no candidate has ever had more honorable, honest and patriotic men and women working in his behalf."

Attacks "Extravagance." Judge Pittman continued to attack Talmadge for the "extravagance" of the governor's office and the executive department, charging that while the reduced income of the state necessitated economy in the executive department, the total cost of the executive department has been greater under his administration than under any governor in many years.

He charged Talmadge with two instances of violation of the constitution. He took the oath to uphold, and asserted that "Talmadge is afraid of the day of reckoning he now is facing."

Governor Talmadge doesn't want an honest legislature," he declared. "He doesn't want to run the risk of having the representatives of the people investigate his conduct and his official actions for fear of impeachment."

Takes Up Platform. Judge Pittman remarked that "you may be sure that the silk-shirted members of the governor's staff, who contributed $12,000 in one lump sum to his campaign fund, will do everything in their power to keep me from carrying out this platform."

He said that before anything else, "I will do all in my power to see that state officials are honest; and I will eliminate those who are not."

"I believe I know enough about law and about prosecution so I can get rid of the crooks, without calling out the army and navy."

Judge Pittman promised to co-operate with the president and congress and was applauded when he praised Roosevelt as the "prophet of a New Deal."

His High Ideals. Judge Pittman was welcomed by leaders in the newly formed Crisp

WEST POINT SENIORS START BENNING STUDY

Two Weeks' Training in Georgia on Docket for Uncle Sam's "Finest."

FORT BENNING, Ga., July 26.—(AP)—Seniors of the United States Military Academy at West Point, discharging their "sea legs" after a cruise down the Atlantic coast on the transport Chateau Thierry, started today to study battle problems on the training grounds of the world's largest infantry school.

Uncle Sam's future generals arrived at the Fort Benning reservation shortly after 11 o'clock (central standard time) last night after a weary overland drive from Savannah, where they had left the transport yesterday morning. Their trip across Georgia was marred by one accident, and that was the crash of an airplane carrying two officers who attempted to drop a message to the convoy near Macon, Ga.

This was the first time the seniors had come here for training, as heretofore only regular army officers have been sent here.

After studying actual field conditions on the 36,000-acre reservation here, the class will go to Fort Monroe, Va., for a brief course in artillery armaments. Then they will board another transport for the trip back to West Point.

C. B. Allen, editor of the Moultrie Observer, Tuesday was elected president of the Associated Press Club of Georgia, succeeding Herschel J. Jenkins, president of the Savannah Morning News and Savannah Evening Press.

Mr. Jenkins was unable to attend because of illness. He had served for several years as president of the Associated Press Club. J. P. Miller, managing editor of the Savannah Morning News, presided over the meeting today in the absence of Mr. Jenkins.

A proposal was made during the meeting that Mr. Miller be elected president but he expressed the opinion that the presidency should be passed around among other members of the club. After his suggestion Mr. Allen was elected.

The meeting was for the purpose of discussing the news report of the Associated Press as it is delivered to members.

MACON BUS QUESTION POSTPONED BY JUDGE
MACON, Ga., July 26.—(AP)—Hearing of a petition for injunction to stop the city of Macon from entering into an agreement with the Georgia Power Company for the abandonment of its street car service here, was continued indefinitely today by Judge Louis L. Brown in superior court.

The company in its offer to the city proposed to guarantee the operation of its bus service by another company to be created.

When the case came before Judge Brown today attorneys said that counsel for the city had agreed to a plan and hence there was no need for the hearing.

Further negotiations between the power company and the city may be expected, it was said.

GILLIAM ASSAILS STATE PROHIBITION LAW

Candidate for Governor at Americus Says Bone Dry Law Is 'Fraud, Sham'

AMERICUS, Ga., July 26.—(AP)—Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, of Atlanta, declared in a campaign speech here today that he would immediately repeal the bone dry law if he could be shown "a man in Georgia who has quit drinking liquor because of the prohibition law, or a county, city or town in Georgia where a man with the price cannot buy a drink if he wants one."

"Bone dry prohibition in Georgia is a fraud and a sham," he said. "It has not reduced drinking and it has not promoted temperance and sobriety."

Mr. Gilliam said that Judge Claude Pittman, of Cartersville, has gradually adopted his platform.

"It has been said that 'consistency is the vice of little minds,'" Mr. Gilliam said, "and by reversing that formula we find that Judge Pittman is a man of large mind and broad vision. Recognizing a good platform when he sees one, he proceeds to adopt it, even though it was put forward by one of his opponents."

"A few days ago Judge Pittman adopted that portion of my platform declaring in favor of a unified and uniform school system for Georgia, although in so doing he was scrupulously careful to avoid any definite commitment as to how he proposed to raise the revenue to accomplish unification and uniformity."

"I propose to raise the revenue by means of a retail sales tax and by the state taking over entirely the operation of the common school system in Georgia, which at one stroke will enable the counties and municipalities to cut their property tax rates at least 30 per cent."

"If Judge Pittman favors a unified and uniform system of common school education, why does he not offer a suggestion as to some revenue measure whereby the most desirable objective can be arrived at? His advocacy of equal educational opportunities for every boy and girl in Georgia, put forward in general terms, is about the same as saying 'down with the bull weevil and on with good roads.'"

"After adopting my platform in reference to a unified and uniform school system, Judge Pittman next adopted that portion of my platform in favor of adequate taxation of motor carriers for hire. But here again he fails to commit himself to anything definite in the way of a taxation proposal."

"After his speech here, Mr. Gilliam left for Dawson where he spoke this afternoon. He announced he will speak at Sylvester tomorrow morning and at Ashburn tomorrow afternoon."

Uncle Sam Aids Man Hardup for Long Time
SAVANNAH, Ga., July 26.—(AP)—Senator Walter F. George tells of recently visiting an old friend who had been financially embarrassed for several years.

The friend appeared to be in the best of spirits and the senator asked the reason.

"My friend told me that he had been up against it for several years," the senator said, "and was badly in need of money. He told me that he had finally succeeded in borrowing $175,000 from one of the government agencies."

"This," the senator's friend told him, "is the first time I've been out of debt in 20 years."

LAWYER RAPS JUDGE ON M'ADOO DIVORCE

Contempt of Court Charged To Jurist Who Criticized 42-Minute Decree.

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—(AP)—Judge Frank C. Collier's criticism of the actions of the attorney representing Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo in her recent 42-minute divorce from Senator William Gibbs McAdoo brought a sweeping denunciation today from Attorney William H. Neblett, long an associate in the law offices of the senator.

Neblett filed a notice of a motion to strike from the court files Judge Collier's remarks concerning the quick divorce. He charged Judge Collier had no authority to issue such a statement, which he described as "scandalous, libelous, unprivileged, spiteful, malicious" and an "unlawful attempt to use the files, records and processes of the court for publicity purposes."

One of the 10 reasons why Neblett contends the remarks should be stricken from the files is that it forms contempt of court by Judge Collier.

Neblett also contended the statement made by the judge, who said the proceedings which Judge Collier presided over were "irregular, violates the state bar act in that it disclosed disciplinary proceedings before the state bar pending or anticipated against an attorney at law."

Judge Collier had charged the actions of Attorney Henry Grivi in obtaining Mrs. McAdoo a divorce in record time last week were "contemptible if not contumacious."

Neblett entered the case in behalf of McAdoo. Hearing on the motion was set for July 31.

POWER OF FERGUSONS FACES TEST IN TEXAS
AUSTIN, Texas, July 26.—(AP)—The political genius that brought James E. Ferguson into prominence in Texas 20 years ago and subsequently made his name known meets another test Saturday.

Throughout Texas, facing a democratic primary on that date, the question being asked is "Ferguson, Jim," seeking no office for himself or his wife, Governor Miriam W. Ferguson, transmit his remarkable vote-getting powers to his favorite in the race for governor?

The Fergusons are retiring from office-holding, but they are not letting any political chip be turned in their quest for votes for C. C. McDonald, Wichita Falls lawyer and friend of long standing. Since that day three months ago that the nation's only gubernatorial couple first announced they would not again ask for election to a public office, they have been giving every help they could muster to McDonald.

Mrs. King, who was on a visit to the World's Fair, said she was departing tonight for Rome.

NANCY PAGE

Nancy Gives the Secret of Good Cool Beverages By FLORENCE La GANKE.

The church society was in need of funds. It planned a lawn fete in watermelon time. Nancy was on the committee to help. At first the group thought they would serve nothing but melons of all types. They had watermelons, cantaloupe, honeydew and honey ball on their list.

Then they considered serving French vanilla cream in well chilled halves of cantaloupe. For those who did not want to attack a whole section of watermelon, they were prepared to serve watermelon fruit cup.

In making this they used the French vegetable peeler and cut small balls of rosy melon, golden cantaloupe and frosty green honeydew. These were combined and put in fat, chunky glasses. A well chilled syrup of sugar and water (cooked for 10 minutes) to which they had added a little ginger syrup and a dash of lemon, was put over each serving. Not more than two tablespoons of this syrup were used for each glass. Just before the glass was handed to the purchaser, a small amount of well-chilled ginger ale went over the fruit.

There were some members of the committee, however, who felt that ice cream and cake, and fruit punch or lemonade would be needed in addition to all the melon mixtures.

Nancy furnished the fruit punch. It was so good, they asked her what the secret was. "I'll tell you," she said—"I always boil the sugar and water, equal parts, for 10 minutes to form a syrup. That makes the beverage smoother. Then I add strong black tea; that gives the mixture a good body. I use a well-flavored fruit juice, such as loganberry or grape. And with it I combine strained lemon and orange juice. That gives pleasant flavor and tartness. I do not put pieces of fruit in it. They get in the way when the beverage is being sipped. I add ice in large pieces so it does not melt too fast and so dilute the mixture. I add sprigs of mint and plenty of ginger ale at serving time."

NAZI ASPIRATIONS DOOMED FOR ME

Munich Is Silent on Mobilization of Austrian Legion Forces.

MUNICH, Germany, July 26.—(AP)—Indications that Nazi plans for the extension of the third reich into Austria—plans of Chancellor Hitler's outstanding aspirations have been solved again were apparent tonight. A prolonged silence, broken only occasionally by protests of "innocence" in Austria, prevailed here today, and this strategically located center of Austro-German strife seemed to be losing its reputation as the cradle of political plots.

At least two foreign correspondents were sent away twice from the headquarters of the Nazi Austrian legion, where they went to get interviews, with the explanation that Alfred Frauenfeld, head of the Austrian legion, was too busy or was out. Minor officials gave emphasis to their assertions that Germany is "innocent" of any interference in the Austrian situation. Until today events in Austria were watched here with the keenest interest.

with machine guns were attacked by a mixed force of soldiers and Heimwehrmen.

The Nazis, outnumbered, retreated. They left behind dead soldiers and prisoners. Government forces took two machine guns.

At picturesque Saktveit, 20 miles north of Klingenberg, soldiers captured the postoffice and the district governor's headquarters. Government forces attacked and a desperate battle ensued.

A machine gun battle raged at Feldkirchen Ossinersee near Villach and Wolzgang. The outcome was not learned in Vienna.

Nazis Kill Country.

One town, Rattensburg, on the Yugoslav border, fell without a struggle as government troops moved in upon Nazi occupation forces. Hundreds of Nazis were reported to have fled across the border and surrendered to Yugoslav authorities for internment.

There was fighting apparently just as serious in other sections. Fifteen government men were killed between battle lines at Domstall. Earlier reports told of 14 other deaths and many casualties.

The government called upon able-bodied former officers and soldiers to join the fight. The Vienna newspaper, was taken into custody.

Dr. Erich Rejzke, son-in-law of "King Anton" Rintelen, the late Austrian ambassador to Rome, was arrested at Graz and Walter Petzweide, editor-in-chief of the Vienna newspaper, was taken into custody.

Dr. Rintelen himself was reported by his wife to have been killed. She said he was fatally shot in the jail cell to which he was taken because his name was connected with the putsch.

While the government press bureau denied Rintelen was dead, other quarters said he had committed suicide. His wife declared he had died in a hospital after writing a note saying, "I am innocent."

Government forces on the Carinthian front claimed important victories over the rebellious Nazis in last night's fighting.

Heavy resistance was encountered on the line between Steier and Stodan, advised said, but the government was represented as confident of retaking Steier in the course of Friday's fighting. Troops also were preparing to storm Feldkirch.

Nazi forces occupying the upper Danube valley were pretty well cleaned out, said a communique.

In Lesental and Gaisel and Rosenthal quiet prevailed for the time being. The Heimwehr has not yet been able to capture Hohenberg, a commander had fallen in action. The railway line between Kuehnstorf and Eisenkapel was re-captured from the Nazis.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Jacobs Drug Stores invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives.—(adv.)

Roosevelt Extends Sympathy to Vienna

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull today dispatched messages expressing the sympathy of the United States government and the American people on the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss to President Miklas, of Austria.

The president's communication, as made public by the state department, said:

"It is with horror and deep regret that I learn of the assassination of Engelbert Dollfuss, minister of foreign affairs and chancellor of Austria. I extend through you to the Austrian people sincere sympathy in my own name and on behalf of my fellow countrymen."

"Mrs. Roosevelt joins with me in expressing to Madame Dollfuss our deepest sympathy in this great sorrow which has come to her."

Secretary Hull's message, addressed to the acting chancellor of Austria, said:

"The sad intelligence of the death of Chancellor Dollfuss at the hands of an assassin shocks and grieves me beyond expression."

"My fellow citizens join with me in extending to the government and the people of Austria sincerest sympathy in their sorrow."

GERMANY DENIES INTEREST IN AUSTRIAN SITUATION

BERLIN, July 26.—(AP)—Nazi Germany, insisting that her interest in the Austrian situation is nothing more than that of a solicitous neighbor, tonight continued an aloof attitude.

Messages of sympathy went to Austria for the death of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss at the hands of the Nazis he fought so vigorously.

Franz von Papen, the German vice-chancellor, will be sent as a special envoy to Vienna, it was indicated today in an official published message from Chancellor Hitler to von Papen now in Switzerland.

Von Papen's appointment in the terms of Hitler's letter was taken to mean that he is leaving the German cabinet and dropping his post as Saar commissioner, at least temporarily.

Germany's possible position in any international project regarding Austria was the major topic of conversation in unofficial circles, but government officials declined statements on such topics as the present whereabouts of Chancellor Hitler.

Some quarters which have means of knowing reported that Hitler was not in Austria, but in the German capital, and this seemed to confirm a rumor in Munich that the chancellor went there.

This report was taken to mean that Germany's hitherto "detached" but friendly view of the Vienna development is underlain by concern regarding other nations' councils about Austria.

Both President von Hindenburg and Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath sent messages of condolence to Austria, the former expressing his "heartfelt sorrow" to President Miklas.

Two domestic developments have clouded Germany's situation internally.

It was learned reliably that Vice-Chancellor Franz von Papen, whose position has been under attack since the June 30 "purge" of storm troop rebels, has gone to Switzerland for an indefinite stay.

This had been rumored before, but a friend of von Papen verified it today.

The afternoon papers today, while sticking to the neutral attitude, commented that the killing of Dollfuss was a "natural outcome" of his regime.

The papers also denounced as "simply lies" charges that Germany or Germans had anything to do with the events yesterday in Vienna.

FRANCE IS PREPARED TO SUPPORT AUSTRIA

PARIS, July 26.—(AP)—France stands ready to help Italy preserve the independence of Austria, officials emphasized today, as predictions were made that closer cooperation between the two countries would be one result of the thwarted Nazi putsch in Vienna.

Premier Doumergue and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou in their messages of condolence on the death of the hands of Nazis of Chancellor Dollfuss indicated clearly where France stands.

The foreign office officially took a calm view of the matter, and it was whose borders touch Austria were advised not to send troops to the frontier for fear trouble might be aggravated.

Doumergue's message praised Dollfuss for his fight to maintain Austria's independence "to which France is firmly attached."

"Indignation at the abominable attack" was expressed by the foreign minister.

The French officials regard the danger of a Nazi revolution as diminished by the failure of yesterday's putschists to gather any considerable following.

YOUNG OTTO IN TOUCH WITH AUSTRIAN SITUATION

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 26.—(UP)—The former Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, pretender to the throne of Austria, kept in close touch with stirring events in Vienna tonight, at his exile castle outside Steenokkerzeel, Belgium.

With his mother, the former Empress Zita, the youth was informed of the murder of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss by the Nazis, and the fighting in upper Styria.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

Marvelous Lotions To Use

By MIGNON.

There isn't anything that feels quite so refreshing, especially in the warmer months, as a skin lotion used after a cream massage. Many women prefer to cleanse their skin with lotions. Personally I never get quite clean that way, except when I use a liquid cleanser, which is not at all like the skin lotion I'm talking about. Instead, it is a stronger liquid which I clean with before using a good cream to take away any possible dry effects it might have.

But the skin fresheners and lotions I'm talking about today are to be used after a cream massage and are bland, not any sting in any of them. They are cooling and they are best used, in my opinion, poured over a damp face, and then used with a pad of soaked cotton. You can flap it against your face or lie down and pad of cotton over your face, leaving a breathing space over the nostrils. This is a grand way to do if you have 10 minutes' time to get thoroughly refreshed. Of course, apply the usual dry bit of finishing cream after this, and before you make up.

I can give you the names of three fine lotions today, which I have thoroughly tried out and can recommend.

1. One is a water-thin liquid which smells nice and fresh and is inexpensive and efficient.

2. Another is an almond-honey-cucumber lotion, not thick, just runny and smooth, and with a fresh scent. It is grand after a bath, too, and disappears into your skin, leaving a breathing space over the nostrils, and after a long day of shopping or tramping about, as it relieves tired, pedaled extremities.

3. The third lotion is a nice mild affair with a refreshing fragrance—I don't know what the scent is, but it is so light it won't do anything but entrance you. Inexpensive and very, very nice, particularly when used with that lump of ice.

bonds since July of last year.

Losses of $1 to $10 appeared throughout the share list, and the Standard Statistics Company price index of 90 representative issues dipped under the low of last October to the lowest level since May 8, 1933.

The bond market, however, which has held better than stocks for some time, slid back only to the level of last March 1, as measured by the Standard index of 60 domestic corporate issues.

Conservative quarters in Wall Street described the uneasiness over the European situation as highly exaggerated, but point out that since it was almost 20 years ago to a day that the 1914 crisis broke, the state of nerves was not difficult to understand.

But it appeared that Americans were taking a decidedly less hopeful attitude toward possible effects upon American securities than Europeans were, for a stock exchange authority said a checkup of brokers handling foreign business indicated more buying than selling from abroad.

HITLER IS BLAMED BY AUSTRIAN OFFICIAL

Propaganda Chief Charges Regime in Germany With Supporting Move for Putsch.

NEW YORK, July 26.—(AP)—Colonel Walter Adam, Austrian propaganda chief, in a radio address from Vienna, today charged the regime of Adolf Hitler in the Reich with supporting the Nazis of Austria in their putsch that brought the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss.

Adam, whose address was rebroadcast in the United States over the NBO network, said the putsch of the Nazis "was isolated and met with almost unanimous indignation and asperation on the part of the populace."

Discussing how Dollfuss was killed, Adam said:

"The leader of the band walked up to the chancellor and with his pistol leveled at a short distance, took two shots. The chancellor was hit in the neck and below the shoulder. He turned to one side and then fell on his back on the floor. Then he became unconscious and his blood flowed out on the carpet."

"Two police officials then begged the leader of the bandits to send for a doctor or for the ambulance corps. This was refused and makes it possible for the terrible accusation that the terrorists intentionally left the severely wounded chancellor without a doctor and without any aid in order that he might die miserably in this way."

His refusal to inject the anti-Semitic issue into Austrian politics, however, led to an open break with Hitler. "The Jewish question," he maintained, "is an international one; it cannot be settled by one nation."

"The order affecting the five 50-day-old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Olivia Dionne, was obtained from District Court Judge H. D. Leask."

Dr. Allan R. Dufur, of Callander, the physician who has kept the infants alive longer than any other known quintuplets, was named one of the guardians.

The others are W. H. Alderson, of the Red Cross emergency committee; Kenneth Morrison, Callander merchant; and Oliver Dionne, the grandfather of the internationally famous children, who are all reported to be gaining weight and thriving.

Ex-Aid To Hitler Now Austrian Head

(By the Associated Press.)

A living model for all heroes of melodrama, Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg brings fire, dash and romance to the turbulent Austrian scene.

Barely 35, this outspoken, steel-willed young descendant of the righting Count E. R. von Starhemberg, who stubbornly held Vienna against the Turks 251 years ago, started young on his road to power.

He was with Hitler, the man he now opposes, in the now famed Munich "beer putch" in 1923, and during the ensuing decade his career was to be inextricably interlaced with that of Hitler.

His love for combat he got from his fighting ancestors, and civil war and revolution were his lot.

After fighting with the German insurgents in Upper Silesia, the youthful prince returned to the vast estates he had inherited and began wedding together the iron guard that was to back his every move in the complicated Austrian political game.

He outfitted 800 of his feudal retainers with uniforms, feathered caps and slogans, an skillfully inserted the little unit into the growing Heimwehr organization, assuming supreme command. His ability of organization enabled him to unite the "Verband Deutsche Wehr," the "Bund Oberer" and the "Bund Unterer" into the "Laegercorps Wien," and he was away on the road toward power.

First he dickered with Hitler, his older leader, and flitted with Austrian leaders.

His refusal to inject the anti-Semitic issue into Austrian politics, however, led to an open break with Hitler. "The Jewish question," he maintained, "is an international one; it cannot be settled by one nation."

"The order affecting the five 50-day-old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Olivia Dionne, was obtained from District Court Judge H. D. Leask."

Dr. Allan R. Dufur, of Callander, the physician who has kept the infants alive longer than any other known quintuplets, was named one of the guardians.

GOOD GIRL

By PEGGY GADDIS.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

While Calissa Logan, pretty 19-year-old southern cotton mill worker, is dancing in a pavilion near Stanley Mills, she attracts the attention of Kent Stanley, 25, and handsome, whose aristocratic mother owns the mills. Kent cuts in, and the dance ends, suggests a drive in his roadster. He stops at the roadside but when she refuses his kiss he drives her to her home, the shabby cottage of her uncle and aunt, the Johnsons. As they arrive Calissa confidently tells him that she has been waiting for him to come. He gives her his fraternity ring, Jim Wright, a cotton mill worker who has been "courting" himself. Kent goes to see her daily in the hospital but he is called suddenly to Atlanta by the serious illness of his mother. Calissa is greatly disturbed when she sees a lurid story in an Atlanta Sunday newspaper featuring pictures of Jim Wright, Kent and herself and telling of the romance of the mill owner's son and the "cotton doll" as the girl workers are called. When she returns to work she is summoned to the office of Mr. Powers, the general manager, where Mr. Norman, a lawyer representing Mrs. Stanley, offers to buy Kent's ring. Calissa says it is not for sale and he repeats this to Mrs. Stanley, who goes in to see each other and some day we are going to be married—whether you like it or not! Mrs. Stanley says Kent is engaged to a girl of his own class. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

The bookkeeper, a middle-aged, graying individual, looked at her sourly when she entered his office and demanded an explanation of the significant blue slip.

"I don't own the mills. I only work here," he told her, wearily. "I don't even know your name—Bill—but you are ordered to put a blue slip in the envelope bearing a certain name, the blue slip goes in and there my responsibility ceases! Powers or Carroll must have ordered it! That's all I know about it. Now get out—I'm busy!"

It was Powers, at last, who admitted ordering the blue slip and Calissa faced him across the desk where, earlier in the week, she had faced Norman and talked to him. Powers made no effort to deny ordering the slip and gave his reason, frankly.

"I've no complaint about your work, Calissa—your foreman tells me you are a very good hand, steady and reliable and capable. But—the word came this morning from the owner that you were to be discharged. And that's all I've got to say about it. I'm sorry, of course—but I have to obey orders. It may be that you can get on at one of the other mills—Bath, Clearwater, Summerville—some of those places, and I'll be glad to give you a good reference. That's all I can offer," he told her, a finality in his words and voice that made Calissa's heart sink.

"Of course we both know there's not much chance of me getting anything to do there—those mills are laying people off!" said Calissa.

"You should have thought of all that, Calissa, when you were desiring Mrs. Stanley!" Powers pointed out, grimly.

Calissa stared at him for a moment, then said quietly, "Yes—I suppose maybe I should—but—I didn't realize she'd do anything as—low-down mean as this!"

Powers rustled some papers on his desk, as though to excuse his failure to defend his employer, and said, with an assumption of briskness, "Well, I'm sorry, Calissa, but I'm afraid there's nothing I can do about it. I received my orders, and followed them out, that's all! Good-bye and good luck!"

"Thanks!" said Calissa, grimly. "I'll need it!" and as she walked out of the door, banged it smartly behind her.

Out in the street in the white-hot glare of the August afternoon, she paused, hesitating. She dreaded going home. By now, Uncle John had reached home, and the news of her dismissal would have gone with him. Aunt Lou would be—Calissa preferred not to think at the moment of Aunt Lou's temper. She saw a little group of girls coming out of No. 7 building, and as they saw her, they stared at her curiously, and she saw their heads together.

Calissa was far too pretty and far too popular with men to be very popular with girls. The fact that she had managed to keep her reputation unspotted had added a little twinge of spite to the malice of girls less attractive or less popular. The attentions of the "young boss" Jim Wright's tragic declaration of his love for her—the newspaper stories that had made Calissa striking figure, for at least a little while in the public eye—all these things added to the venom of girls like Sadie, who were jubilant at this public humiliation of the courted and lovely Calissa.

All of this Calissa realized as she walked, hatless, through the blazing sunshine, turning her steps along the street towards the paved highway that led towards the open country. Little she realized, with a little sinking sensation of her heart, knowing that life, hereafter, in Stanley Mills would be impossible for her. She would not be able to find work, for Mrs. Stanley owned the village, body and soul. Of the 3,500 souls that made up the inhabitants of Stanley Mills village, not one but drew his from the income, directly or indirectly, from the mills—and the mills belonged to Mrs. Stanley.

Calissa's thoughts ran on as she walked. Aunt Lou and Uncle John could not afford to keep her, even if they were willing to do so, unless she could pay board.

Calissa admitted a feeling of panic that gripped her heart. Yet not for a moment did she turn on Kent, even in her thoughts, or hold him accountable for her present difficulties. She did not say, "If he had not come to the pavilion that night, I'd never have met him!" Or, "If I'd never had the ring, Mrs. Stanley wouldn't have had me fired!" Nor did she for an instant consider giving up the ring, unless Stanley himself asked for it. Kent had given it to her—to give it up to his mother was like giving up Kent himself. With her feminine intuition, she felt that Kent would not ask for it, for she felt, definitely and surely, that Kent loved her as she loved him. She had come to a point in the road from which she could see the Stanley home, crowning its hill, surrounded by its beautiful old trees, through which the mellow old red brick of the house shone richly. She could see the velvety sweep of green lawns, she knew by legend of the beautiful formal gardens with their boxwood hedges, which were more than a hundred years old. Dimly, she sensed some of the quiet beauty and elegance inside that lovely old house, and her heart was filled with bitterness towards the woman who owned and enjoyed all this luxury—and yet could be petty enough and mean enough to rob a humble employee of a chance at earning her living! She felt that she hated Mrs. Stanley—even though she was Kent's mother!

She turned, at last, and made her way back to town. She was tired and hot and dusty. No use putting off go-home any longer. The longer she waited, the harder the ordeal would be, she told herself, with a mental grudging for the inevitable battle. She loomed on through the dust until a little lemon-yellow roadster alighted to a halt beside her, and Bill Evans jumped out and faced her.

"Calissa, I've just heard what happened, and I think it's a darned shame all the way round!" he told her, quickly.

Unexpected tears came to Calissa's eyes.

"Thanks, Bill!"

"Come on—let's take a ride and get cool!" urged Bill, eagerly.

Calissa shook her head. "I'd better get home and let Aunt Lou get her mind unloaded!" she answered, with a forced lightness.

For the moment, the road was deserted. The little car stood beneath the shadow of an old oak, dust-covered, yet yielding a grateful shadow in the late afternoon. Shielded by the car from view of any passerby, Bill said, suddenly, unexpectedly:

"Look here, Calissa—this wasn't the way I'd planned it—I guess I've planned it about every way in the world except this one. I might make the most of it! Calissa, you don't have to look for another job—I'm making pretty good money—why don't you come and get married? You know I'm crazy about you—I always have been—we'll pull pretty well in double harness—and I could take care of you!"

Started, taken completely by surprise, Calissa stared up at him, wide-eyed.

"Why, why, Bill!" she gasped, amazed.

Bill colored, a little. "Well, what the heck do you suppose I've been chasing you so hard for, if I didn't want to marry you?" he demanded, a little resentful of her amazement.

"You know I'm crazy about you! Say the word, and we'll see a preacher—this afternoon!"

He was very much in earnest, and Calissa rested her hand in his arm for a moment, as she answered, "Thank you—but—I can't—I do thank you—but—I can't!"

"You see, I'm not in love with you—and you wouldn't want a wife that wasn't in love with you!" she told him, quite honestly.

Bill was silent for a moment, and his face went a very little pale. His eyes narrowed, darkened, and then he said, quietly, "It's—the young boss, I suppose?"

Calissa nodded. He had paid her the compliment of asking her to marry him—she owed him at least the truth.

"You know he'll never marry you, Calissa—his mother won't let him!" said Bill, swiftly.

"Perhaps not—but she can't keep me from loving him!" said Calissa, spiritedly. "Nor—from loving me! I know what, Bill!"

Bill studied her for a moment, then he shrugged.

"O. K., Calissa—you're the boss! Want me to drive you back to Aunt Lou's?"

She shook her head. "Thanks—I'll walk, Bill—and not get there quite so soon!" she answered, with a little wry smile.

"If it gets too tough for you, Calissa, and you change your mind, I'll be waiting—a little while, anyway!" said Bill, and with a wave of the hand he drove off.

Calissa was passing through the business section of the village, surrounding the commissary, when a man stepped in front of her and lifted his hat. Instinctively on the defensive, Calissa stepped back, looking up—and recognized the man. Norman, Mrs. Stanley's lawyer, who had come first to try to buy the ring from her—Kent's ring.

"Miss Logan, I'd like to have a few words with you—a business matter of importance," said Norman as courteously as though he spoke to Mrs. Stanley. "If you'll just come into my office here?"

FIERCE FISH OF THE SEA.

V—Saifish.

A man who catches a saifish with rod and reel has something on his hands. Usually the fish is not more than six feet long, or 150 pounds in weight; but it is a fighter and may make the fisherman pay for trying to catch it.

The name "saifish" comes from the great fin which stretches out from the way down the back, and which may look like a little sail when the fish is swimming near the surface. Sometimes the fin is more than 18 inches high.

Saifish are fierce enemies of sharks, and will fight them "on sight." Sometimes a shark attacks a saifish which is being dragged to a boat.

Seven years ago a saifish weighing 177 pounds was caught with rod and reel near Panama. It was 10 feet long. This record was broken in 1931 by William B. Grey, who captured a 180-pound saifish, also near Panama.

Other "rod and reel" records include a 795-pound shark caught near New Zealand, and a 1,040-pound striped marlin swordfish captured by Zane Grey off the coast of Tahiti.

Far larger fish have been taken with harpoons or nets. Among them are a mola, or ocean sunfish, which weighed an even ton, and a mako shark caught off the southern coast of Africa which tipped the scales at 2,176 pounds.

The whale is the largest of all living animals, but it is a mammal, not a fish. The largest fish is believed to be a shark which does no harm to people. It is larger than even the basking shark, and is known as the "walsh" shark. The record whale shark was harpooned off Knight's Key, Florida, in 1912, by Captain Charles Thompson. It had a weight of more than 13 tons.

SALLY'S SALLIES

Memories are all right to live on, provided you have something else.

After swallowing the hook, the saifish loses little time in starting to leap and plunge about. Often, during a leap, the point of its bill is six feet or more above the water.

JUST NUTS

The last part of the battle may be the worst for the fisherman, for the saifish keeps up the fight until the bitter end. More than once it has caused a man to tumble in the water, and it has given serious wounds with its sharp bill or "spear."

The flesh of the saifish is good to eat, but there is doubt as to whether it is "worth the trouble" of catching.

Saifish are fairly common in the region of the West Indies and around the Florida Keys. Sometimes they swim into the broad Atlantic, but they keep to the warmer currents. They are related to swordfish, but do not have such long or lifted bills. One kind has the special name of "separfish."

The name "saifish" comes from the great fin which stretches out from the way down the back, and which may look like a little sail when the fish is swimming near the surface. Sometimes the fin is more than 18 inches high.

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—An early advance on reports of storm damage to the crop along the Texas coast was followed by declines in cotton today under liquidation and scattered selling influenced by weakness in the grain and stock markets and the European news. December contracts after selling up to 12.98 on early demand, broke to 12.70, making new ground for the movement, but recovered a good part of the loss, closing at 12.83. The final tone of the market was steady, with

The spring was firm at an advance of 2 to 4 points in the face of relatively easy Liverpool, but it is a idea that the gulf storm might do more damage along the Texas coast than good in the drouthy sections of the Gulf. Active months of buying in 11 points net higher, with October advancing to 12.87 and March to 12.13, but the market weakened on indications that the rains along the coast had extended into central sections of Texas.

Prices broke sharply and stop orders were uncovered on the decline, which sent March to 12.86 or about to the market, with last prices showing rallies of 12 to 13 points from the lowest.

The detailed weather reports show heavy rains along the Texas coast with some good rains in central Texas, the state where the precipitation was the heaviest. The heaviness over the situation in central Europe was evident during the report, but comparatively few orders appear to be reaching the continent from abroad. The cotton market is credited with buying some considerably. Exports today 23,516, making 7,629,386 so far this season. United States cotton stocks 2,464,921.

The opening was steady but quiet. Liverpool cables came in slightly lower than due but first trades here showed no change to 2 points lower.

Abe Goldman Ran a Pawnshop, But Once He Had Been a Broadway Hooper With Lovely Bonny Hanter.

BY EDNA L. BRAIDS.

A door banged. Simultaneously the three gold balls suspended on the flexible steel rod hanging over the entrance of Abe Goldman's pawnshop bobbed up and down merrily in the bright morning sun. Somewhere in the stuffy interior of the store a bell rang.

Abe, busy in the small office in the rear, paid no attention to these signals. He was efficient clerk, wizard of jewels and finance, was on the verge of a kissed his forehead thoughtfully. "Well, some gold and silver pieces and a few stones; small ones."

He cast a furtive glance in Davy's direction, as if to assure himself there were no listeners in that quarter. He grew confidential. "Max, I got a diamond; it's a juicer." He drew back, as if to let the full meaning of his diamond sink in, and take effect.

"There's a bit of romance attached to it—listen." He pushed a box of cigars, kept for business purposes, toward his visitor.

Abe watched the smoke from his cigar sail toward the ceiling in little gray circles. "Twenty years ago,

Max, yours truly," he tapped his chest—"was the classic hooper on

Little Old Broadway. That was some thing you didn't know, eh man? Wait till you hear the rest. I had a partiner lip and a crossed it as we glided good-looking baby type. Whereby, but she could shake a wicked leg."

"We teamed together under the name of Hackett—Bill and Bonny

Hackett. Clubs and private parties were easy money. We made plenty of mazzina."

"I bought her a diamond," went on

Abe. "Five hundred snappers it cost.

But I didn't care. I was in love with money and nothing was too good for Bonny in those days. Then from somewhere in the Argentine came a guy with pretty hair. You know the type—tango dancer—dark southern eyes, soft voice." Abe paused,

with a shrug he blew a kiss off

this tip of his nose. "Good-bye, Bonny vanished. So did Max. That was his name—that was his name, Ramon."

My diamond went along, too, to keep him company. That's why I quit the stage and old town, Max. Just couldn't take it."

"That was 20 years ago, and this morning—now get this Max—I was glad to see you. I was glad to see you, when in walks a little woman. She was kind of shabby, but nearly dressed. I couldn't for the life of God, then I saw her. She was before.

Then it came over me like a flash—

it was Bonny! She didn't know me from Adam. As I looked at her she seemed so embarrassed, she turned her head away. I saw there on her face by her ear, what that cute little birthmark was which I used to kiss

her. Just like a little star. How often

I used to kiss her. I used to kiss her over the boards together. I didn't know what to do. I couldn't help feeling sorry for her. I was going to speak to her, but she turned away. So

I took the ring and handed her the money."

Max interrupted. "What are you going to do with it, now that you got it?"

"Do with it? It's mine, ain't it?"

I paid for it. Diamonds is money.

Max. Five hundred at interest for 20 years—some dough, eh? But really,

I don't care. I don't care. I don't

EDGINGS.
Pattern 5159.

Perhaps one of the first things a person does, who learns how to crochet, is edgings. And ever since that she has a special fondness for making them, for she has immediately found out how they can enhance the plainest of linens. This collection of six different ones give you the opportunity of starting right at the linen closet itself with the dressing-up process by making crocheted shelf edging in a simple popcorn design. Quite different from this is the lovely feather-like design that makes choice collar sets, glove cuffs and edging on round doilies. The lace pattern used on the scarf has all the daintiness that one wishes on linens. And if you have no immediate use for these edgings yourself, the lovely designs will make the work worthwhile and you will also have the chance to get some inexpensive yet choice needlework put aside for gift occasions. The edgings range from 3-4 to 4 inches in width.

In Pattern 5159 you will find complete instructions for making the edging shown; suggestions for using them in a variety of ways; illustrations of the stitches used, and material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Follow the Sayingame

$1,800 in Cash Prizes!

By THE SAYINGAME EDITOR.

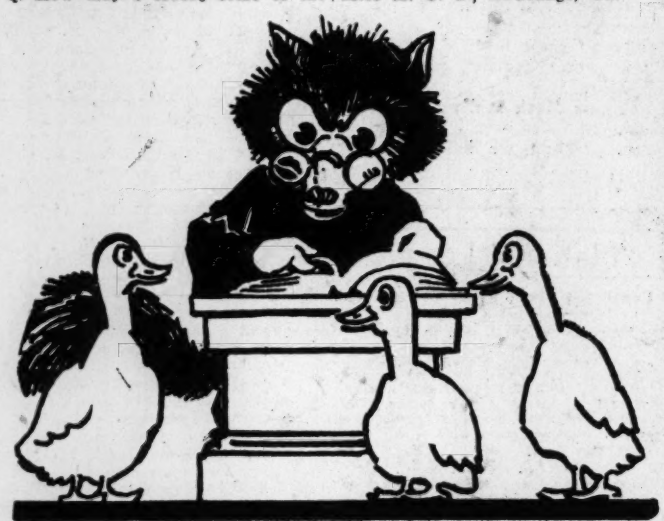

Cock your thinking cap jauntily upon your head, and wade into today's picture! This one shouldn't be especially hard to solve. When you've fitted the most appropriate saying to it, you'll be another step along in the direction of one of the 35 prizes totaling $1,800.

Many entrants in the Sayingame have found the first list of adages, reproduced in the form of a newspaper section, so interesting that they have requested extra copies to be kept permanently. The Constitution circulation department still has a large number of these sections, which will be gladly given to those who call, or who write in and enclose 3 cents in stamps to cover mailing cost. This list has the solutions to the first 22 pictures of the series, and many of the pictures beyond No. 22.

Much of the Sayingame's appeal lies in its complete freedom from red tape and bothersome conditions. There are no subscriptions to solicit and non-subscribers are eligible. Entrants are not asked to turn out essays, compose letters, or work on tie-breaking puzzles.

MY SOLE!

Pardon that pun, ladies and gentlemen, but I am merely making the conscious pun I made when I exclaimed with astonishment over the first flounder I had ever seen. I saw that one, you know, because he began to attract my somewhat flighty attention and to seal it down and bind it to the point where it is impossible for me to think of ever having considered another life work.

Do you remember last Friday's article? I spoke there of the depressed bodies of the sting-rays, and contrasted them with the compressed bodies of the flounders. Now an adult flounder is a puzzle, for he rests upon his side on the bottom, swims through the water in a horizontal plane, and has even adopted the coloration of the top than on the bottom—and there arises again a confusion of terms, for he is really darker on one side than the other.

For all this adaptation, flounders

CORONATION BUTTERSCOTCH PIE ...

1 1/2 cups brown sugar
1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 cups milk, acidified
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon Crisco

Blend sugar, flour, and salt together. Add milk and cook until mixture thickens. Just before removing from stove, stir in beaten yolks and fluffy, creamy Crisco. Let stand while preparing Crisco pastry of 1/2 cup Crisco, 1 cup flour, and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Crisco, because it is wholesome and digestible, makes easily-digested pie crusts! Divide the dough into three parts and roll each out to a sheet. Cut into rounds, 8 or 9 inches in diameter. Place separately on baking sheets, pricking each well. Bake in a hot oven (425°F) until delicately brown. Put pie together like a layer cake, alternating crust and filling. Cover with meringue. Brown slightly in a slow oven (325°F). Serve as soon as cool.

early life that the flounders as a race originated from a group of common-looking fish. Whatever led to his change of position and the shift of the eyes—or did an original shift of the eyes lead to a change of position?—we may never know. There is one thing about him, and that is his perfection of camouflage that goes directly to the heart of the color-matching powers of metachrosis matter. He is able to match almost any type of background, with any number of color changes to his credit. I have seen many a photograph of flounders over this and that background, and in many of the pictures it is hard to tell fish from background. As Beebe says, flounders are wonderful.
